Moon In Pisces Man Secrets

by Anna Kovach

What do you need to know about your man with moon in Pisces?

Hi Guys, by now you will probably have read one of my 'Secrets' books and he is armed with plenty of character, personality and sexual information about your guy's Star Sign or Sun Sign, but there is still more to learn as astrology is so much more than just the Sun Sign. Once you read his book on Pisces Moon you will find that so much falls into place about your Pisces Moon Man and what is more, you will begin to understand other people in your life with Pisces Moon as well.

Do you know a Pisces moon man? He can be shy and he is slow to show his true feelings. He is rather vulnerable and yet he is an expert at hiding this behind an often flamboyant and theatrical manner. He is inspired by lofty goals and he feels a strong debt to humanity, meaning that he is often driven to do selfless acts or to help others in practical ways and via leadership. He has a powerful ESP and precognitive ability, he is wise beyond his years and often senses trends before others. Art and music is both a refuge and mode of expression – he has a deep appreciation of the arts in general. His private life can be chaotic and he is moody and unpredictable and but can be incredibly caring and deeply affectionate.

The Moon traits are often exhibited unconsciously and while you may be aware of them, your Man may not be. It is vital to know the Moon sign of your partner as the Moon influences play out in relationships quite dramatically.

Bear in mind that the negative traits of the Moon Sign can be exacerbated by stressful aspects to the Moon or alleviated by helpful aspects from Venus and Jupiter.

So let's get down to business...

More about the Moon.

The Sun, Ascendant and the Moon are the most important influences in a person's chart. Of course major aspects, rulers and planets near the ascendant are also key, but you cannot get away from the influence of the moon, especially in relationships.

The moon represents emotions, security, safety and long term relationships and attachment figures.

The moon also represents the mother or mother figure, and the effect our very first bonding relationship with, usually our mother, had on us.

You can see why the moon is so important in love already from this brief description. The moon also represents patterns of behavior we set up in childhood, the effect childhood experiences had on us and how we still carry those reflex emotional reactions and memories with us. While the Sun is the future, the moon is the past, it is our roots and our background. While we need to grow into the Sun, we can never forget where we came from and that is the Moon.

We all know that men are greatly influenced by their mothers, either in a good way, a bad way and usually a combination. A guy's mother is often the thorn in our side as girls, as our guy often defers to her, hence why there are so many mother in law jokes. So, to understand his Moon sign, is to understand his relationship with his mother and how the dynamic he has with her can impact on your love life.

His Feminine Side

How well has your man integrated his feminine side i.e. his nurturing and receptive nature? How comfortable is he with expressing emotion or giving nourishment. This is often indicated by the relationship between his Sun and Moon sign. Is he in touch with his intuition and feeling nature or does he keep emotions at bay?

The Moon is symbolic of our deepest emotional patterns, our needs and our automatic responses. It shows how a man feels about his anima and that will affect how he reacts to female influence outside him. The Moon has a bearing on how he forms attachments and what he needs from others to make him secure.

It is about how he gives himself self-care and how he is able to parent himself which will have a direct bearing on how he is able to be parent his children.

The Moon also represents home life, community, family matters and the way our immediate environment affects us.

The Moon Sign

The Moon goes through all the signs every 28 days and so no matter what Sun Sign your man is, the moon could be in any one of the other signs.

This book aims to look at:

1. What having Pisces Moon means and the traits it bestows.
2. Pisces Moon Man and what he wants in love.
3. The cosmic mixture of his Sun and Moon sign.
4. Your Sun sign and his moon sign – compatibility.

Pisces Moon – What does it tell you?

"That's why they call him Mr Fahrenheit!"

Moon in Pisces is one heck of a prospect and so make sure your house is earthquake proof and get ready for a tornado.

Yes, there is a dreamy side of him that loves nothing more than to escape and be overcome with emotion and desire. He can be flamboyant and frivolous, he understands Goethe, appreciates Van Gogh, he's read the Bible and the Koran, he appreciates Shakespeare and Vivienne Westwood but do not be fooled, he is no butterfly, he has a deep sense of divine purpose. In many ways he is divinely inspired and has a deep connection to humanity that burdens him yet powers his engines, he sees truths and trends and it is his mission to save souls.

He has a deep sense of what is refined, cultured and beautiful, but he is never blind to suffering and oppression. He walks tall among the great and good, but is happiest with the underdog, the outcast and those on the edges. He recognizes what is rare and undervalued and has excellent instincts about art and talent.

He is a touch psychic and his ESP and instincts are hot! Never ignore him when he speaks of premonitions.

While at times naïve in terms of the nuts and bolts he is keenly aware of people's character and their soul. He finds joy, emotional expression and solace in art and music and may be gifted in either composing or understanding the finer points of these.

Often Pisces moon man is interested in religion, spirituality or mysticism, he is deeply aware of the great eternal mystery we are bound up in and he seeks to understand it better, not in arrogance but to better appreciate its glory.

He carries a weight on his shoulders, he is burdened by the plight of those near and far, he feels like a custodian of the future and will not live his life just for himself. By choice or fate, his life and destiny are inextricably linked to that of the wider collective and he instinctively feels that connection.

His power is in his ability to see beyond what is obvious and his innate sense of a greater purpose brings courage. Pisces moon man is universal, he avoids nailing his colors to one mast as he desires to be many things to many people. He seeks roots, he seeks somewhere to belong.

He may reject his parents or his home town or his religion or his gender, there will always be something he rejects about himself in order to embrace something which seems a better fit.

He has a deep sense of being an outsider, he or a parent may have been a victim and he adopts that victim mentality and becomes an advocate for victims. He may have a chip on his shoulder that becomes a barrier to his own development as he sees everything through the lens of that grievance.

Pisces moon man can be very insecure and he seeks a positive, optimistic and communicative partner to share his enthusiasm, but who can add some objectivity. Pisces moon man is not always the best friend of reality, often his ideas or aims are too great for his station, but he is king of visualization and often those vivid images, the conviction that stirs, the hope that never fades allows him to move mountains where others have failed. But often, he does fail as to fail is part of his journey, part of his identity, to succeed would mean to be one of 'them' and that would conflict with his identity as the outcast.

He is almost romantically attached to his image as outsider, even martyr, and so the myth of his life must contain struggle and mythical battles against the tyrants from which he emerges bloody, but brave and true.

Many Pisces moon men understand their responsibility to the collective instinctively but they express it via various forms of art and drama to awaken and educate more subtly. Some Pisces moon men lead wasteful lives of excess and addiction as they cannot stand pressure and because reality is seen as a threat not a challenge.

Many Pisces moon men experience addiction themselves or via others, meaning that they either avoid alcohol and such altogether or at some point become so lost that they have an epiphany and are able to turn their life around.

He may not be practical or reliable as he responds quickly to changes, he sniffs the change in the wind and he is off in another direction. He lives life highly inspired and his skill is in his adaptability and versatility, he can adjust quickly to many new circumstances and take advantage.

He will have unusual relationships, often they are ill defined and confusing. He is emotionally erratic and likes liaisons that are exciting or even if ill advised. He may associate with connoisseurs, crooks, con men and crowned heads of state as he is fascinated but not judgmental. He can walk a mile in anyone's shoes as he has a heightened ability to sense experiences that are not his, he had lived many lives and has a long karmic memory.

In some way he carries the race memory or the tribal memory and understands history and how it plays out over and over. His baffling concern for things way beyond his life stems from his understanding of the interconnection of everything.

He is often drawn to science as a way of deciphering what he feels inside, i.e. that there are universal patterns. He however also understands the hidden truths disguised in art or literature.

He has great compassion, but his lack of boundaries mean he can be duped, he may become immersed in the suffering of others to the extent that he forgets what he is trying to achieve and just gets bogged down.

He has an amazing sense of humor which can be cutting or sarcastic or just zany. His sense of humor is often driven by truth rather than by an attempt to get laughs or attention.

He needs space to drift and indulge himself in some way, too much reality weighs heavy and the key to his wellbeing is the ability to escape physically or mentally or to be able to totally lose himself in someone or something.

He has a great deal of inner faith and a belief in his divine purpose, something which will transcend the material or the ordinary. He appreciates greatly what has gone before in terms of the contribution to art, politics, architecture or democracy and he draws on this for strength.

While he may seem weak at times, that is a false perception of a person who feels a responsibility far deeper than you imagine.

This is the most intriguing yet hard to define of the moon signs off and so he brings magic, mystery, delusion and confusion all at once.

Moon in Pisces has a keen radar for the dishonest and dubious, however when his emotions get involved this radar goes wonky and he gets sucked in by deceivers and those with a clever story. He may see all the faults in his enemies outside his circle, but none within his friends in his circle, this sends him down a path of hypocrisy where a blind eye can be turned to one set of people while another set is slated for criticism or worse.

He has his blind spots and this is due to his identification with a group or idea rather than judging people on an individual basis. He may see the group he associates with as almost divine as he is always seeking if the divine or the ideal on earth, but it never exists, only in his head and so he must either be disappointed or deluded.

This is the most complex placement of the moon. It indicates a complex emotional nature which seeks great emotional and spiritual depth in others.

There is often a great attachment to his mother and sacrifices are made for her wellbeing. More negatively there can sometime be an over identification with his mother where he feels like he needs to live out her dreams.

He is very sensitive and often this placement means a clairvoyant or psychic ability. He is certainly a person who perceives the subtleties in any environment.

He is highly sympathetic and yet he needs more discernment as some may play on his emotions and take advantage of his kind nature.

His boundaries can be too porous – he needs to establish firmer boundaries for others' behavior with respect to himself.

He is a very kind and caring person and may well work in a medical or caring profession. There is selfless side to him as he has a spiritual nature. He is a little like a psychic sponge as he tends to absorb the emotions around him, for this reason he needs to stay well clear of negative people and toxic situations as they seep into his sub conscious and can affect him mentally and physically.

He may suffer allergies and has to be careful about the food he eats – he should avoid GM, keep organic and be careful of reactions to prescribed medicines.

This can indicate an addictive nature and so it is better for him to avoid alcohol, gambling etc.

He is very impressionable and for that reason he may often choose seclusion to avoid getting into situations which become all enveloping and hard to extract himself from.

He is sensitive emotionally and is easily hurt by blunt and nasty types – he gets on well with Taurus, Leo and Scorpio as they are also sensitive and so tend not to be blunt, abrupt or ultra-critical.

People can play on his emotions to manipulate him – he can easily be made to feel guilty or obliged to get him into doing something. He must not be manipulated via guilt or perceived obligation.

People can benefit enormously from his compassion and the way he cares for the underdog.

Let's Delve Deeper

Pisces moon man needs space, particularly mental space to dream and ponder and he needs to be able to pursue some of his eccentric hobbies without nagging or criticism. He forms bonds based on mutual empathy and spiritual inclinations.

He often likes to be rather indulgent with his emotions and may occasionally wallow in self-pity or morose as this is his way of working through things, but it may feel excessive for some more emotionally restrained signs. He also plays the 'poor me' card occasionally as this is also in his coping tool box. Watch out for him playing you for sympathy.

He likes to idealize people and situations as it is a way of glamorizing life and avoiding reality, which is also something he does. He has a very addictive personality and needs to avoid drugs and alcohol as well as other compulsive behaviors as he quickly forms habits.

He also loses himself in films and books as he is expert in living life vicariously through others as a way of satisfying needs. He finds it very hard to be direct and assertive about getting his needs met and so he often does it through roundabout ways and fantasy or voyeurism can also be a means to this ends.

He may have had a parent who was highly responsive to him and perhaps jumped to every cry or whimper with great compassion and this may have encouraged him to get attention and sympathy by being upset or needy.

A parent may have been very artistic and a little distracted and may have encouraged his imagination as a way to amuse himself, he may have been encouraged to have imaginary friends. A parent may have been perceived by him to be a martyr, someone who gave almost completely to him in a dedicated way but who invoked guilt and sought payback.

She may not have given without expecting something in return. His mother may have been very vulnerable or unable to deal with reality and thus at the mercy of an abusive husband, as she could not cope alone.

He learns about being a victim and often sees his parent/s as victims and this develops a persecution complex within himself, which is why he is often feels an outcast or scapegoat.

Often an addictive parent teaches him early lessons about the dangers of alcohol or drugs. He may in later life attract an addict as a partner, repeating that pattern. He may have been neglected as a child as his parents were away with the fairies, chasing their own dreams or obsessed with their own victimhood.

His parent/s may have been overwhelmed and just not able to cope with being parents and thus he never experienced proper care and nurturing.

Pisces moon man often has a very complex childhood and he may think back on it and say it was idyllic, forgetting the time mom was drunk, dad beat mom or the debt collector took everything away – he has a great ability to block out what is painful and paint over a happier picture.

Moon in Pisces man must learn to soothe himself and self-comfort, he cannot always rely on external emotional validation as it exhausts others and drives them away. He must spend more time attending to his own needs and not trying to avoid them or confront them vicariously.

He does have a problem acknowledging his real needs and being honest, he may spend so much time saving others that he forgets to save himself.

He may well look to religion or a cult or a sect as a way to feel a universal love or connect to the divine. Religion is often the only way for him to find healing, self-acceptance and fulfilment, but it also makes him vulnerable to phony gurus or manipulative preachers, who offer him a glimpse of heaven.

Often the earthly existence and material things leave him cold and he seeks a divine inspiration to finally give him a sense of belonging and acceptance.

He must learn to translate visions and longings into direct action, in order to link the myths they cultivate inside with reality, this can make him very happy, but with all the procrastination will he ever get there?

In relationships he looks to get behind your walls and boundaries and get closer than anyone before. He wants oneness in love and so he is ready to get up close and very personal, so unless you want to open up and bare your soul, you need not apply for a position as his lover.

However even this may not fulfil him until he accepts his own vibrant creativity, perfection and value.

What does the Pisces Moon Man look for in a lover?

He wants a lover who....

1. ...is an imaginative, romantic with an idealistic side.

You must enjoy moods, music and movies as well as being near the sea or lakes.

2. ...is compassionate and able to inject him with self-confidence when all seems lost.

3. ...is feminine, gentle, courteous and charming.
4.appreciates that he is quite tender inside and does not enjoy arguments or harsh words.
5. ...has an innocence about her and is not too jaded that she cannot still dream.
6. ...loves to talk about concepts, ideas and potentials rather than money and practical issues.
7. ...makes him laugh, cheers him on and booms him up.
8. ...understands that he carries a weight or karmic responsibility and respects his need to be self-sacrificing.
9. ...gives him wise counsel on who not to trust as he can be naive.
10. ...who understand his emotionally confused yet deep nature and does not ask too many questions or try and over simplify matters.

The Pisces Moon Man Lover

This moon man has a great deal of presence, he has charisma and the ability to inspire, but he is a romantic at heart, he believes in true undying love. He is sensitive and that sensitivity can be to feelings, vibes, trends, undercurrents or even nature as he may suffer from allergies. He has a gift for understanding what is vague, concealed or subtle and he has a high degree of emotional intelligence.

He often has dreams which are precognitive and he is good at interpreting symbols or even economic or weather trends, and he can take facts and then make a nonlinear leap into the abstract to draw a conclusion. He may be talented at things like divination.

He may be drawn to water sports or sea travel as he has a connection to the ocean. Pisces moon man enjoys and revels in the human experience and he is an appreciator of all forms of art, like Leo moon man he loves to be in love as he feels that love, like art, is a kind of magic that separates us from the animal kingdom as human beings and gives us our divine spark.

Art and love brings us closer to our creator or the universe and Pisces moon man will have a strong belief in one or the other. He can be hard to know and his emotions are subject to change and so he may well fall in and out of love many times.

Pisces moon man is like a sponge and he absorbs what is around him often becoming his surroundings or adopting them, part of him always seeks to merge and avoid a sense of separateness, which to him means isolation and loneliness. While Aquarius moon man wants to be free and independent, Pisces moon man wants to feel part of a collective or a movement, he has a strong need to merge with something greater than himself.

Pisces moon man has a great degree of adaptability, versatility and acceptance and he is able to get on with anyone, but that is totally different to saying he likes everyone, as his instincts will always warn him off some people who he will develop a strong dislike for.

As he identifies strongly with the group, he will be antagonistic to those who threaten the group, even if that person has done no harm to him personally.

He is incredibly imaginative and seeks a lover who sparks that imagination and shares his desire for escapism and fantasy.

He like games, dressing up and foreplay, to turn him on you must simulate his senses and get his imagination working overtime. He thrives in long distance or cyberspace relationships as these require the use of imagination to fill in all the gaps left by no physical presence.

He likes verbally expressive partners who tell stories and have interesting anecdotes or views on things. While he may be cautious, he wants to associate with people who are daring, risk loving, adventurous and fun loving. He likes people who get him excited more than he actually likes honesty.

He is drawn to flexible lovers who do not box him in or tie him to a conventional relationship. He seeks a partner who can open his world to new friends, new experiences and new vistas, he enjoys change and variety as he is easily bored. In some cases he seeks a partner he can rescue as he likes to heal and redeem others as that is a powerful ego hook for him.

He is strongly susceptible to techniques like mirroring as he is very impressionable and often picks up he habits and mannerisms of those he is with – this said he needs a positive partner, as one prone to addiction or negative habits can quickly rub off on him.

In love, he is a people pleaser and can give in too easily to the demands of a partner, but that can lead to him feeling martyred and resentful which causes him to become more distant and pull away from you longer term. When unhappy he gets more and more evasive, he is there in body not in soul and he becomes very difficult to reach.

While he is highly individualistic, it is very easy for him to lose his way – he lacks a certain stubbornness which could protect him from drifting towards the goals of others which have for that moment captured his imagination, he is too easily disgraced from his goals.

He needs a partner who can stabilize him and bring a down to earth influence and yet he may reject that sort of partner as he wants more of what is unrealistic rather than what is realistic.

He is very vulnerable to manipulation and deception as he often refuses to shatter his own bubble by facing facts and thus he can fall into a pattern of self-deception, he is often his own worst enemy in love.

He often falls in love with his idealized image of someone rather than what they truly are. He is very empathetic, which means he can fall in love with energy vampires who are perpetually draining him as they fail to take responsibility for their own lives or seek constant reassurance or emotional gratification.

His relationships often exhaust him and may even demoralize him as he has few boundaries and does not know how to pull back when it all gets a little too intense.

He is confusing to know and hard to understand, he may be one thing on the outside, but his reactions and moods tell a very different story. He may not even understand himself and he may sell you a very different picture to what you eventually discover.

He is extremely sensitive to rejection, even when it is not rejection just a misunderstanding and so you have to handle this relationship carefully. You need tact, diplomacy, love and foresight in this love match to resolve issues and potential crises.

Until you get to know him communication can be a minefield, as he is not at all clear about what he wants and he has this odd mix of people-pleasing one minute and being quite OTT, then just fading away and being quite unresponsive.

He is helpful, loving and attentive, however you often have to be extra thoughtful, helpful and anticipate his needs as he is so bad at making demands in a straightforward way, he may well use innuendo, sarcasm or jokes to allude to what he really, really wants. He can be frustrating as he is so complicated.

You have to be a bit of a mind reader or a psychologist to get on with Pisces moon man. It is quite easy to dominate or even take advantage of him as he lets you get away with a lot, before he snaps.

Pisces Moon Man and the Rest of the Zodiac

Pisces Moon Man and Pisces Girl

This is a powerful love match and it is rather likely that as a Pisces Girl you will have a love affair with a Pisces Moon Man at some point in your life.

Moon Conjunct Sun is a powerful synastry connection and generally it will work out well and yet strong aspects to each of your Sun and Moon at birth may have an impact on the exact outcome.

There is a powerful attraction between you both and that attraction cuts like a knife though many other life circumstances as it locks you in and magnetically draws you together. Pisces Girl will catch Pisces Moon Man's eye and he will probably be the one who makes the first move.

Your compatibility as a couple will be felt intuitively by him and he will recognize the potential before you do, as Moon characteristics are more hidden.

So Pisces Moon Man will immediately notice your Piscean traits and be drawn to them, once you get to know him better you will understand how he has many similar values as reflected by his Piscean emotional nature.

As your relationship develops and it will, Pisces Moon Man will play a supportive role in your life and in many cases you as Pisces Sun will be the dominant partner who takes control and steers the relationship.

There can potentially be problems where the Man has the Pisces Moon and you, the woman a Pisces Sun. Over time Pisces Moon Man may feel a little unsettled or even suspicious – he may not notice right away, but over time he clicks that he does not have the power in this match and that may bother him, depending on his star sign, especially if he is fire. If he is Virgo or Scorpio he may be quite happy for you to wear the pants as he will exercise his power in more subliminal ways.

If he is Pisces or Cancer Sun he will be able to work with you and you will have very different roles which means you do not tread on each others' toes.

In general, if your Pisces Moon Man fancies himself as an alpha male, he may get jittery once he discovers that you are seizing the control and you must be careful not to overplay your hand.

On the positive side however, it is certainly encouraging to know that your man is behind you and has faith in your ideas and feels synthetic to your cause. It all depends on how happy he feels about playing this role longer term.

But there is another aspect to this, you may not want to play the lead role in your love drama and you may want him to be a leader sometimes and not let the buck always stop with you.

Pisces Moon Man with the Water Signs

(Water signs are Scorpio and Cancer)

This aspect indicates love and harmony and is a very positive one to have; it forms an excellent basis for marriage and a long lasting bond. There is much to unite you and your instinctive reactions and desire for well-being tends to be in sync.

You are less likely to anger each other and there are strong grounds for cooperation. Any disharmony or even separations are temporary as the pull to get back together is strong.

Your emotional interactions flow and it feels quite natural to share; you tend to accept each other and it is rare for you to feel you have to keep secrets because you fear being misunderstood. You enjoy cooperating and romance tends not to stutter due to your needs jarring.

You will not waste energy competing or trying to undermine each other; you both feel that there is too much to gain by being together and too much to be lost by being apart, that you will not cut your nose to spite your face, by prolonging disputes.

The only problem with this match is complacency and a lack of willingness to tackle difficult issues – problems which could be solved or talked about tend to be brushed under the carpet. You may both procrastinate, not only about inter personal issues, but also about issues that face you both i.e. decisions about where to live, job changes, moving home etc, so much so that you can get into a rut or begin to drift with no real direction.

Boredom can set in, and you both need to be more conscious about what is happening within your relationship and be willing to have a love or sexual audit every so often, just to avoid becoming stale.

If both of you have Cardinal or Fire signs rising or within your chart configuration this mix may be too easy and perhaps not intense or dynamic enough.

One of you may get bored and may perhaps begin to desire a little more stimulation elsewhere.

You can really rely on each other and there is a genuine interest in how each other feels and in assisting each other to feel needed and loved.

Pisces Moon Man will rely on your wit and wisdom – he is attracted to your spirit and your style and you fulfil many of his expectations. You rely on his support and feel he understands you and appreciates you, without wanting to change you.

Pisces Moon Man with the Mutable Signs

(Mutable Sigs – Gemini, Sagittarius and Virgo)

This represents a mixture of temperaments and a clash of personalities and innate natures, but there can still be a strong attraction. Pisces Moon Man may withdraw or become more moody as he feels thwarted and unable to express his emotions or be understood.

If you are a mutable sign, you may have the effect of making Pisces Moon Man more defensive and you tend to get under his skin. You have this effect of going close to the bone and you can make him uncomfortable as you push his buttons.

However, this combination has so much energy that it can excite and be a catalyst for positive change in your both. You will not get bored and life is less likely to get predictable than with the air signs. Pisces Moon Man may exaggerate and take things that happen in this relationship far too seriously. You have to be careful to monitor his feelings as while you think things are fine, he may have a different take.

This can lead to those situations where you get blindsided by something you simply did not see coming as you are not in touch with his feelings as much as he is with yours.

You have to work at making the partnership equal as it can too easily slip into an unbalanced situation in terms of power and only you can change that, this means developing a great deal of awareness and more sensitivity. The message to Pisces Moon Man is, “Lighten up.”

Your way of showing your emotions and your care or concern is different to your partner’s – this can mean you both end up giving each other what you don’t want. So while you both put effort in, it fails to hit the right notes as you are misinterpreting the real needs of the other. You need attention and you will get it from your partner and yet you may feel they do not appreciate fully what you stand for and what you are saying.

There is attraction and mutual respect, you are not miles apart by any means and yet you have difficulty fulfilling each other’s needs and expectations.

This combination has a great deal of good chemistry and attraction. Especially with Virgo where it is more pronounced and even more involving.

This match generates excitement as the differences between you create interest and intrigue and you are curious to discover more and eager to make the relationship work. He may be unaccustomed to the way you tackle life, but he quite likes the possibilities for change you bring.

You can rub each other up the wrong way and there are certainly upsets and clashes as you both struggle to assert yourselves and steer the relationship.

You both have habits and behaviors that jar with each other and there will be some things about each other than may be deal breakers if they begin to dominate the personality. There are frustrations and irritations, but these tend to flare up rather than be ever-present and that is why you can get over hurdles.

There is always enough excitement and common ground to allow you to mend bridges.

This combination often gives rise to jealousy or rivalry, as you guys tend to compete – you may compete to be top dog in career or to get the most attention from the kids and this competition can get out of hand.

It is worth remembering Billy Joel's song, "I love you just the way you are!" and to try living up to that sentiment.

The match with Virgo is the least problematic as there is a give and take with compromise coming out of discussion and experience. The attraction is also mutual and the ties that develop are strong and binding.

You can get drawn into this relationship despite yourself and you may find it hard to walk away.

Pisces Moon Man with Earth Signs

(Earth signs are Taurus and Capricorn)

No matter what the other factors in your charts, this combination boosts compatibility and happiness together. There is the same mutual sympathy and understanding as with the earth signs but a little more variation to enable you to learn from each other and to make this interesting.

This combination brings romance and friendship along with team work. Communication is enhanced, you tend to socialize together and enjoy similar subjects

This combination is great for long term relationships and brings happiness and romance; but what's more it encourages self-learning and some gentle changes which will enhance both your lives.

You will both compliment and support each other. Pisces Moon Man will relax you and put you at ease.

This combination creates a great deal of activity and some restlessness, you are less likely to fall into complacency as with the water sign combo. You may already have been friends for a while or perhaps you know each other's via siblings. You are pretty au fait with your partner's lifestyle and you are both people who enjoy variety.

This placement assists in communication, especially about feelings, rather than just superficial chatter. It deepens the intellectual side of relationships and increases emotional rapport. Your partner enjoys sharing emotions with you and you are able to comfort them.

You enjoy the way your partner thinks and reasons things out and even if you do not quite get them intellectually you intuitively understand where they are coming from.

This placement bodes well for marriage, as let's face it, one thing that many marriage people complain about is that their partner does not listen to and understand them and that will not be the case here.

The camaraderie and friendship aspect of your love is powerful and it is what pulls you together.

You enjoy spending time together and are good friends and you accept each other, partly because you are part of the same 'set'.

This is a good relationship from the get go and you will hit it off. You may both introduce each other to interesting and helpful people and networking is certainly part of your lifestyle.

Your relationship is hinged on having many mutual aims which could include humanitarian or political aims and you tend to move in similar circles. If one of you is less committed to the joint goal or becomes disenchanted with it at some stage and drifts into another sphere, this can have important ramifications for the relationship. The health of the love affair is somewhat dependent on your both continuing to have similar interests, friends and lifelong aims.

Pisces Moon Man with Aries, Leo, Libra and Aquarius

These are the trickier combinations for Pisces Moon Man as you will not share commonality in terms of emotional responses and Pisces Moon Man may find you insensitive or uncaring. There can be many hurt feelings as you misunderstand each other and even if you try and show care, you may not do it in a way that Pisces Moon Man will readily understand or respond to. This match can work and yet it is not reliable.

There may not be chemistry and if you do argue, you may not be drawn back together as you could be impatient with each other and less willing to extend an olive branch.

These matches do have a connection despite the fact that Pisces Moon Man does not share a modality or element with these signs. The pull together is often subconscious. You have psychological similarities and may be able to bring each other security in the face of change.

These combinations can create growth, development of talents and promote mutual success. They may also serve as a catalyst for some much needed psychological development or metamorphosis.

Maybe because you are so different, you can see each other with a special kind of clarity and can provide objectify. You will not get sucked his narrative – you can give him a new narrative and thus a new take on his life. These signs will not pander to Pisces Moon Man, they will nudge or even cajole him and while that will get his hackles up; it may be just what he needs.

These combinations have to work harder at understanding and working together as it may not come naturally as there is always much to disagree about and Pisces Moon Man is pretty stubborn.

However, you can get into a groove where you work it out and from there on out things click, or at least you will learn how to resolve or avoid differences.

Phases of the Moon

This section is about how your man's Sun Sign interacts with his Moon sign and yet I would also like you to read the section which applies to his Ascendant or Rising Sign.

So, if your man is Pisces with Libra Rising/Ascendant then the read Pisces with Pisces Moon as well as Libra with Pisces Moon.

Aries with Pisces Moon

This placement tempers the Aries drive and ambition and heightens his psychic power and receptive ability. This Aries Pisces moon man may be a talented artist or healer. He may have had poor health or a period of recuperation at some point which has contributed to a more reflective and deep thinking attitude.

He adores reading and can be quite a home bird who enjoys his own private space. He has a powerful ESP and level of gut feel and he trusts his intuition.

When an Aries man has Pisces Moon, he is born in the Balsamic Natal Phase, this is a highly karmic phase and he will tend to meet many people with whom he has unfinished business in his last life. It is highly possible that you and he have a past life connection and that can both deepen and complicate your relationship as there will be many lessons to complete from the last life that may not be fully understood in this life – this can lead to a feeling of being out of control and tossed about by fate.

He may be quite a secretive person not inclined to talk about his problems, in some cases he hides any weaknesses he has or denies them. He may feel that talking about feelings is a sign of weakness. He may over identify with an alpha personality while becoming increasingly paranoid and neurotic in his private moments.

He needs to surround himself with cheerful, upbeat and straight talking people as well as trusted friends as he absorbs negative vibes like a sponge and they undermine him and he begins to develop a pervasive self-doubt.

He is quite insecure and yet he exhibits a great deal of bravado, you will soon realize that he can be defensive and touchy, which seems out of character for Aries man, but which reflects a needy and often conflicted emotional nature.

He is extremely creative and imaginative but he needs direction as he may lack an idea of where he is going to and what exactly he wants to achieve and that scuppers his best efforts. His energy also fluctuates and he has spells where his battery is running on empty and he needs to retreat and recharge.

He matches well with Pisces, Virgo, Sagittarius and Cancer.

His perception of life can be colored by his childhood experiences which tended to create a feeling of isolation and inferiority and he has internalized these perceptions making them part of his mindset.

He needs reassurance and total unconditional love to heal those wounds and encourage self-love.

Immersing himself in art or a cause can help him gain a sense of purpose and a mission in life and he begins to garner a sense of self that is more robust, this is when he matures and begins to understand the power that comes with his sensitivity rather than the difficulties.

He has the power to make the most outlandish dreams reality as he has a powerful vision and a great deal of desire. When well directed and with the right support, he has unlimited energy.

Once he consigns self-doubt and fear to the past, he can achieve amazing feats as he is highly responsive to cultural trends and society's needs.

He needs to pick his friends wisely as he needs psychological support and is very vulnerable to charlatans, sheisters and narcissists.

He is like a mirror and he responds and reflects the positive and negative emotions of those around him, so beware of what you conceal, he will pick it up and act it out.

Taurus with Pisces Moon

This moon man is rather shy in social situations and he often looks to mother others as a way to fit in and endear himself to others, he is very helpful and makes a reliable team player. He is very sensitive and often has a rapid turnover of friends as he quickly gravitates to new activities and makes new associates quickly, and so he may focus on people for a short space of time before he loses interest.

He often moves on when he feels stressed and so he may lack commitment to ventures that he starts, so although he has great enthusiasm at first, it can fizzle fast and he does not always fulfil the potential he has.

When a Taurus is born with a Pisces Moon, they are born at the last quarter natal phase of the moon. This is a time synonymous with endings and a winding down; the Moon is waning towards the sun.

This combination often leads to a crisis – a personal cross roads where decisions must be made and choices between individuality and identification with the group or peers.

He has no shortage of goals, but they tend to be dreams rather than serious plans and he can get very evasive when questioned about his progress; he is very good at being an ostrich who buries his head in the sand when he doesn't like what is going on.

He fears failing and that often contributes to him making excuses and looking for a way out when he sense things are not going for him. He needs to get over a certain passiveness and a desire to avoid responsibility for his own life by people pleasing.

He complain, but he does not do anything about it, as to be honest he has set up a pattern ha suits him, even though he will deny that.

This is a very charming and non-threatening position, as he is not aggressive and he has a pleasing ethereal nature, but may appear a little fragile. He is deep and quite unusual in his ways. He has the practicality and discipline of Taurus and the imagination of Pisces giving him wonderful creative talents in art, music or design.

He is really bad at saying no, he is long suffering and may allow someone to get away with murder as he is too afraid to hurt their feelings, but eventually he may explode, moon in Pisces can get in a temper.

He needs to learn to assert his needs rather than people please in hope that eventually good karma or some wheel of fortune will bring the same back to him, which never really happens. He may appear happy when he is actually quite unhappy, as he is a master of concealment, but he carries within great frustration which can lead to illness or depression.

He may be self-conscious and so he is slow to make a move; he will become your friend first and things will develop, he is not a man who chases women down as he is shy. He can be railroaded into marriage by someone pushy and so look out for a controlling ex.

He can be quite secretive as he finds it hard to be direct; but he is not sneaky, he is just uneasy about going after what he wants.

He works well alone and like Leonard da Vinci who had this position, is capable of substantial labors of love.

He matches well with Leo, Aquarius, Scorpio, Virgo and Gemini.

Gemini with Pisces Moon

This moon man is very concerned about how he is perceived, he is a slippery character who is very skilled at acting, maneuvering and working the floor. He is charming, adaptable and versatile. He spots opportunities and knows how to position himself.

This combination often leads to a battle between the old and the new. The impetus for success and achievement is great and yet new chapters often come amidst crisis. There is often a freedom closeness dilemma where the Gemini man with Pisces Moon attracts the very sort of women who do not want to settle down, when he does. He may be hopelessly attracted to commitment phones.

There is a constant searching for ways to create meaning in life and a new set of values that make sense. This Pisces Moon Man has a strong urge for a family life and yet he may take many years to settle down and find the 'Right One' to nest with.

He uses logic and rational thinking as his weapons as he is quite guarded and operates in self-protective mode.

The problem is that he is so determined not to wear his heart on his sleeve that he may come across as cold, indifferent and uncaring. His childhood may have contained many mixed messages and so he learned early to adapt to others and to be what the situation required, but this cultivates an inner confusion and disconnection, where he is always 'on' and never relaxed and is true to himself. It is very hard to get to know him as he does not know himself.

He needs to learn to confront things about his past and the effect they had on him or he will never be able to relax and emotionally connect with others. He may actually be better at communicating with the masses, strangers or staff than he is with individuals. Work and his contribution to his company or the wider society matters a great deal and he makes sacrifices in this regard.

He is skilled at sales and marketing and he has pinpoint instincts about what people want and he knows how to use that. He is a good leader of people and so he is great at educating and inspiring, but perhaps not good with technical details and management.

He is the ideas guy and the front man as he is terrific with the public. Again he excels with colleagues and clients but is more cautious with his personal contacts.

If ever his emotions get let loose, he can be hysterical and may lose control totally. He has a wild side and loves to party and stay up late. He likes to live life like he is invincible.

He is often sophisticated and well read, he comes over as educated and well informed. He can be very kind to those who touch him, but he is quite cautious of letting anyone get that close.

He is highly influenced by others and so if he falls in with a bad crowd, you do need to worry as he goes with the pack and thinks it's smart in the short run. However everything with him is a phase and it soon passes.

His wit and charm make him very appealing and of course he enjoys a party and knows how to live it up, making him great dating material. He is a city slicker who likes to buzz of bright lights and big cities. He finds it easy to date, but hard to fall in love.

Cancer with Pisces Moon

This moon man has high hopes and high ideals, he is excited about life and has an adventurous streak, he enjoys challenges, loves different cultures and excels at teaching and writing. He is a great motivator and loves to help out, he gets great satisfaction from giving advice and always has time to listen.

Cancer with Pisces moon are born at the disseminating phase of the moon. This Pisces Moon Man leaves a lasting impression on everyone.

He is highly opinionated and loves to have pet causes to espouse. He can be dogmatic and he may dislike it when you disagree with something he feels strongly about. Overkill is his specialty - he can labor the point at times.

He is a very moral guy with high standards and yet he may exhaust himself and waste time getting involved in battles of a political or social nature which land him in hot water - he does have what I call a 'crusader complex'. He has moral courage and a social conscience and this can be at the root of many of his pet causes.

He is overeager at times and may promise more than he can deliver, but he just gets carried away, he is not trying to mislead. His naturally giving nature is reinforced by this combination, but he is not passive like other Pisces moon man, he is highly driven. He has excellent instincts and relies heavily on gut feel. He loves or hates people on first sight.

He matches well with Sagittarius, Gemini, Libra and Aquarius girls.

He has a desire to explore religion and philosophy and these shape his ideas and give more definition to the divine purpose he perceives within. He cannot accept that his life is going to be ordinary or meaningless. He speaks up against injustice and unfairness and courageously acts as an advocate for the voiceless. He may be attracted to law as a career as he feels it is a practical way to put his ideals into action.

This Pisces moon man may act and talk tough, remember all Pisces moon men are actors, this is how they deal with life, and so while he may roar like a Lion, he is really a pussycat. In the hope of self-protection, he often exhibits a mask which is totally opposed to his true character and so what you see is not what you get.

He uses his imagination to create scenarios in his head, this can be very useful for positive thinking, self-hypnosis or business strategizing. While his Cancer side is quite patient and pragmatic, his Pisces side gets carried away and events in his life often snowball and get out of control.

Self-pity can be a problem this often stems from a lack of discrimination in choosing who to save, not everyone appreciates him and that hurts him.

He has an excellent memory and he welcomes change, he is attracted to risk and speculation and so is less cautious than your average Cancerian. He follows his heart and compulsively acts on hunches. He enjoys being with people who are spirited and forward looking, he is very future orientated and gets bored without a challenge to dream about and plan for.

He has luck and while what he does will test your nerve, he believes fully in the outcome. He needs an objective yet enthusiastic and go getting partner, who has a soft side. He sees sensitivity as a strength and so you need not play the tough, poker face with him.

Leo with Pisces Moon

This Pisces moon man is intense and passionate, he may seethe with emotion or explode with creativity but he is seldom bland. He can be a manipulator and he has great determination to fulfil his insatiable needs and desires. This moon man is an investigator given to an interest in mysteries or even the occult. When he is engaged in something, he gives it his all.

His nature is to investigate tenaciously and to uncover what is obscure. He seeks to regenerate and come up with solutions and new ideas or approaches to problems. He is eager to educate others from the perspective of his own experience.

He is a man of the world and has charisma and panache, he has an incisive mind and is a suspicious character. He questions everything. His insights are penetrating and his ESP rarely far from the mark. Much of his life feels fated even though he is far from passive. He is drawn to danger and intrigue and he is capable of understanding dark or base human instincts without passing immediate judgement. He has a noble spirit, élan, self-worth and he attracts attention without him needing to brag.

The aggressive Leo side to him helps his Pisces moon achieve the unselfish aims that inspire him. While Pisces moon gives Leo man a very private side which he is very protective of, he has a public persona too and this persona loves to lead.

His high ideals and sense of divine purpose do not preclude ego or shrewd pragmatism, Leo with Pisces moon man does not wear rose colored glasses, he understands the world as it is and seeks to alter it from that starting point not from some fairy tale position.

As a young man he is more of a romantic both in love and in life, he was extremely sensitive, but after some hard knocks he fast grows a thick skin. His innocence is a skin shed early and with some distress, however he revels in this new challenge and he becomes battle ready, determined to prosper one way or another. He is a survivor, much like the theme tune to Rocky, "Rising up to the challenge of his rivals."

He has good manners and is warmhearted and considerate, but you cannot deny he is ambitious and in some respects can be ruthless, he is an implacable enemy. Like many Pisces moon men he has strong likes and dislikes for people.

While he has great determination and resilience he is often underestimated as he is indirect in his approach and deceptively patient.

While he is a talented actor, he may prefer a more substantial and influential role in life, he wants respect and power.

He is not easy to satisfy even though he has so much love to give. He knows he can overpower and intimidate but as he matures he mellows and learns to temper that side of himself. He is often on Tenterhooks and he struggles to switch off. He needs to keep busy or else he allows the "monsters to come at night" i.e. fears and anxieties to torment him.

His imagination can lead to both positive and negative trains of thought and he has the power to choose which. He has ethics, courage and is loyal, he is able to center others and bring focus out of chaos.

Virgo with Pisces Moon

This Pisces moon man wants to be in a relationship as he works best in a team, he is conciliatory and one of the most empathetic Pisces moon men as he always sees both sides of the story.

This Pisces Moon Man is born at full moon and this is a phase of completion. He enjoys team work and is definitely not a commitment phoebe; he will probably seek to marry young.

He is an idealist and will spend a lot of time searching for meaning in life. His life may have several phases or gear shifts where he pursues very different goals. He tends to change his mind often.

He can be quite angry, unlike the calm Pisces moon man one expects. At times he can be very out of balance indeed and during these phases he is very difficult to be around. His relationships can be love hate, where he swings from satisfaction to frustration. Love life is often the space where he is more volatile.

He may struggle to incorporate his feminine side and may become too Alpha at the expense of more receptive emotions. On the other hand, he could go totally the opposite way and be an old softy who allows his woman to walk all over him – there tends to be no happy medium. Relations with women can be stormier than with men.

He is a great communicator and desires a partner with whom he can talk things through and reach agreement, he is reasonable. He cannot stand arguments and an atmosphere of volatility, stress or pressure, he does not enjoy displays of anger or aggression.

He is a sincere and deeply caring person who gives both emotional and practical care to those he loves.

He is dependable and takes commitment and promises seriously. He deals with life as he finds it and is thus way less idealistic than other Pisces moon men as he does not think he can change the world, he can only ease its suffering.

He approaches life with honesty and an open mind, but he is not passive, he can be very persuasive and he has a talent at gauging reactions from others and adjusting his approach making him a skilled negotiator.

He is a man who may be shy, but who is also sophisticated and witty, the more you get to know him the more you discover his naughty side. He is an excellent entertainer as he can take people off and do characters, he is not however a show off and his best performances are for friends. He may work in the arts, but probably in a field that requires great discipline i.e. method acting, violin or opera.

He brings calm and reason to any situation and he is an ideal mate for someone who is emotionally imbalanced or anxious. His tact along with his solid principles and belief that anything can be resolved with dialogue and compassion bring him respect and also results. He is trustworthy and dutiful to colleagues, friends and family.

He works very hard at honing skills and is a stickler for detail, he can be very single-minded and distracted if focused on a project. While he has many laudable attributes and can be fun to be around and great company, he may not be loving, he could be distant and aloof.

He likes time alone to read and contemplate, he can be quite moody and difficult. He is often affectionate when it suits him, not when it suits you. You may feel you are not his priority, as his attention is often spread over many different people or projects.

He matches best with Libra, Aries, Gemini and Sagittarius as other signs will require more passion and a more intense relationship. He needs a partner to boss him about a little and tell him how things are, as he can become very narrow and caught in dead end streets. You need to be independent to be with him as while he thrives in love partnerships, he takes more than he gives a partner and he would totally hate me for saying that, but it is true longer term.

He is often in love for safety not because he is truly madly deeply in love, he could be quite cold and out for himself.

Libra with Pisces Moon

This combination represents the Gibbous Natal Phase, which is quite change orientated – he is a work in progress and may change quite radically while you are with him.

He is very experimental and likes to try new things. He is quite volatile and enjoys pushing the boundaries in love.

He can be extremely deliberate and yet he is not very self-aware and so his actions can lack perspective. He is very spontaneous and yet not always cautious enough however he tends to fall on his feet. This is a highly persuasive sign who is very good at playing tricks with your mind.

This moon man has an eye for detail, an insatiable desire for knowledge, a fine mind and an appreciation for perfection. He is sophisticated and sensitive, but very practical, he believes in deeds not words. He loves literature and art and enjoys exploring concepts and ideas, he is a deep thinker. He has a critical side and while he has immense sympathy for the vulnerable and outcast, he does not suffer fools gladly and abhors a poor work ethic.

He works hard and plays hard, he is expert at mixing work with pleasure and often makes a living from what he enjoys.

He is thoughtful when it comes to others but not a soft touch. He can get hurt many times in love as in love he is blind, deaf and dumb and often falls for the wrong people as he misjudges what will make him happy.

While creative and artistic, his path to self fulfilment is riddled with pitfalls as he is filled with self-doubt and often anxiety. Libra love to be part of the group, accepted and respected, but Pisces moon is the outcast, the scapegoat and this is very painful for him and causes him to rebel and go to extremes as he knows he cannot be accepted in the center.

He shuns what is normal and disavows it, before it disavows him. He is never still as he has so much energy and is very restless.

He can be charming, alluring and sociable, but he is a bundle of nerves, never as calm and relaxed as he seems.

While he faced many challenges when young and was insecure and unsure of his true worth, his adaptability, intellectual versatility and desire to learn kept him focused and energized.

He is smart inside and out as he is a dedicated follower of fashion.

He needs to keep his associates under review as he is very sensitive to negative influences and can be dragged down by toxic people. His personality is very porous and so he changes a lot when he mixes with different crowds, he reflects who he is mingling with strongly and you will notice that even if he doesn't. He will deny this as he thinks he is quite consistent. This means that changes in work place or environment bring with them a new him and you wonder if you know him at all.

He matches best with Pisces, Virgo, Sagittarius and Gemini.

He is extremely polite but perhaps not sincere, you never really know what he is thinking. He loves conversation and never stops talking, but he may not be able to relax enough for true passion to develop. He hates violence and aggression, it is not his thing.

He is desperate for a textbook love affair, he is quite idealistic about love and that may be why he makes many bad decisions as his logic deserts him in love. He is quite needy and so keen to be totally accepted and cared for by a devoted lover. He needs unconditional love and acceptance, a great deal of care and attention, not to mention tolerance, but will he reciprocate?? He may take more than he can give as he is quite a damaged person. He often feels that he adapts too much in love and may feel martyred, but this is far from the full story. He may resort to feelings of self-loathing or masochism when in a corner.

He has great intuition but lacks direction and often lets opportunities go begging as he is not direct enough and suffers so much indecision.

Scorpio with Pisces Moon

This combination is quite fortunate, Scorpio Pisces moon man has a positive disposition which brings luck and prosperity. He is generous and loving and his altruistic nature leads to successful relationships.

This is a playful and inquisitive placement. This represents the gibbous phase which brings a desire for perfection and also enquiry. He is a thinker who likes to look for linkages and to analyze events. He is smart and quick witted and yet he may be emotionally immature. He can be very impatient about emotional matters and gets bored with long discussions; he is not a big fan of drawn out deep and meaningful conversations.

This guy likes to try and understand things, including you and he is observant and curious – he asks lots of questions, I am not sure if he always waits for the answers.

He is very romantic and likes to enjoy life. He has many interests and hobbies and is a creative fun loving guy. He is deeper than he seems at first as he lacks that immediate Scorpio intensity.

He has willpower and great determination to fulfil the goals he sets, but he is not continually motivated and driven, he often likes to chill, relax and just enjoy life. Overwork and pressure can bring on depression and he has a stormy temperament during certain phases of his life.

He has strong reactions to people and distinct likes and dislikes. He cannot stand bossy or domineering sorts although he can be just a trifle forceful himself. Watch out for a touch of narcissism as he is quite an instinctive manipulator as he understands the games people play very well.

He has a talent at finding people's Achilles heels, he is not easy to fool so never lie to him. While he enjoys the arts, they may feel too frivolous for him to bother himself with, even though he has creative talent, he looks for more significant ways to engage in life. He is drawn to religion, but may dabble in it rather than become devout as being pious bores him. He is restless as he is easily bored.

He may not fulfil his enormous potential as he does not relish a struggle, he enjoys games and using his wits, but is bored by what is mundane or repetitive. He craves attention and can be quite dramatic to get it.

He is extremely loyal to those he loves and his kindness knows no bounds. He enjoys spoiling his lover and will treat you with gifts or presents and surprises. He likes to know everything about you but remains a bit of a secret himself.

He is quite a hit on the social scene as he is alluring, fascinating, fun and devilishly funny, he can be quite controversial and he often dominates the party once he gets into full swing. He is hard to ignore and he is quite theatrical.

He may not know who he is and what he really wants and this leads to unhappiness and dissatisfaction. He is not always sincere as he likes to avoid the confrontation that being very frank brings.

He often walks away from a relationship due to insecurity, he may do it to see how hard you chase to win him back. He always seeks to push lovers to the limit to test their love and loyalty and this makes him hard to be with. His fear of being alone and his inclination to always be the first to call relationships off, reflects a deep fear of rejection and intense pride.

He needs a great deal of love, reassurance and attention, he may exhaust you.

He matches well with Leo, Aquarius, Taurus and Cancer

Sagittarius with Pisces Moon

This moon man is full of ideas and also full of excuses, he often runs headlong into something then looks for a way out. He is restless, but what he most wants is security and an anchor to give his life some stability. If he lacked parental guidance he can live a wild and reckless life for a long while before settling down.

If he finds a way to put down roots without allowing restrictions to kill his spirit, he can have abundance, happiness and prosperity.

This combination represents the first quarter moon. This is a challenging placement that brings about crisis. Your Sagittarius Pisces Man struggles to manage his energy and make the best of situations. He is very good at adapting to new situations and tends to be at his best when life is in turmoil.

He has a strong desire to set down roots and start a family. He is rather stuck in his ways and a tad conservative, but he is extremely loyal and persevering. He is very reliable and responsible and may marry young.

He yearns for a family life and may want a large family. His weak point is that he allows family members or parents to get into his head and manipulate him via preprogrammed messages. He needs to rebuild himself from the bottom up into what he wants to be, free of external expectation.

His energy comes and goes, this moon man lacks the usual optimism and adventure driven attitude of your average Sagittarius, he is cautious and likes comfort.

He is vulnerable to toxic emotions and unpleasantness especially on the home front and this can affect his health.

He enjoys getting absorbed in books about faraway places and abstract ideas, he is easily inspired and is keen to talk about his ideas with others. He may enjoy the world of academia as he is protected, but intellectually free to explore endless ideas, then spread his wisdom.

The urge for religion or a form of spirituality is strong and he could even be drawn to cults as they satisfy that Pisces moon need for acceptance by the group. He enjoys travel, he can back pack around the world quite happily as he fits in anywhere and has an open attitude that draws others to him. He seeks for his spiritual home, he may make it a lifetime quest to find it.

But what will he do when the real world comes knocking, this moon man is not keen on routine, pressure or responsibility. He enjoys being with a capable partner who is organized and can handle day to day matters, while he sets about building that dream enterprise, whatever that is? You should be clear about what he does for a living when you are still dating as his career path can be very vague.

He is suited to work in travel, hotels, journalism or research. Life with him will probably not be 9-5.

He is lucky and can be very successful, but he may be a user looking to piggy back off your success and capabilities.

He is very generous, but may be spendthrift and irresponsible. His key coping mechanisms are avoidance and denial, it is hard to thrash things out pragmatically as he just gets antsy and walks away.

He matches well with Cancer, Capricorn, Virgo and Aquarius.

Capricorn with Pisces Moon

This moon man is ambitious but subtle, he goes after what he wants with more skill and sensitivity than many Capricorn. He is a delightful Capricorn as he is fun loving, flexible and caring. He enjoys communicating and values new experiences, he is less uptight about work and tends to favor what he enjoys over what makes the most money.

He quite likes internet dating or cyber love affairs as he is shy in real life but excellent with words. He can woo you with his texts or emails and he is a persistent suitor. He gets to know you slowly and develops a rapport and only then will he get romantic.

He likes traditional things like walks, movies and theatre as far as dates go. He is patriotic and loves traditional. He is very knowledgeable about culture and current affairs and is never short of conversation.

He is ambitious but patient and he waits for the right opportunity. He is close to his siblings and enjoys family life.

He is very sensitive and you have to be diplomatic with him as he takes your words to heart and may even over think what you say. He may over communicate or over share once you get to know him and he can be quite gushy and sentimental. He is very compassionate and he does care, but he also nags and pries and you may tire of his curiosity about you. However, he is a very attentive, loving partner who is happy to talk about emotions and always has something to say.

He is a great texter or sexter as he has a vivid imagination and a sense of humor. Sometimes he does think life is like a film and he can have immature expectations in love.

While he is not prone to self-pity, he can dwell on morose thoughts and he may spend time immersing himself in literature or films which are maudlin or troubling. His rich fantasy life can become one of paranoia and he should avoid alcohol and keep a good fitness regime or his physical and mental health can go downhill. He likes psychology and is obsessed with greater understanding of people, although this may not be useful to him. He has a voyeuristic personality.

He has good business instincts especially when it comes to sales, writing, and promotion of events or pop culture. He may also thrive by running a restaurant or nightclub as he is a nocturnal Capricorn less inclined to the boardroom or office, but still keen to run his own business.

He enjoys politics and may like work in the background campaigning or writing materials. He needs a great deal of stimulation as he is often bored.

He needs a partner who can bring him emotional balance and be a support and motivator. He needs some prodding and an injection of enthusiasm. He is less successful than other Capricorn, as he cannot stand hurting people and he is also very thin skinned. However, his kind nature is a great asset in love.

He matches well with Gemini, Sagittarius, Cancer and Virgo.

Aquarius with Pisces Moon

This moon man is loyal, affectionate and loving, he seeks stable sensible relationships which are close and intense.

He is not a person to wear his heart on his sleeve but you should never doubt his level of compassion and sensitivity to your needs. He enjoys gifting and has a generous nature, he likes to spoil those he loves. He has a flexible, giving nature and is not selfish, he can be a people pleaser who is not always vocal about what he wants.

He won't put the moves on aggressively as he likes to form friendships and feel his way into relationships. He likes stability and will not enjoy a lover who is too whimsical or who does not take life seriously. As friendly and sociable as he is, he loves to retreat as he can find other people stressful.

He is keen to amass money and is one of the more materialistic Pisces moon men as he loves nice things.

He is helpful and humble, he works hard and is unassuming, he is often taken advantage of but he does not walk away from a relationship easily as he has great sense of duty.

This is a very thoughtful and deep thinking combination, he is a student of life. He has a long memory and he is very observant. There is an appealing innocence about him and he seems to have divine protection as although naïve, people do not want to take advantage of him.

He may lack the ruthless drive to make the best use of his talents, many of his remarkable gifts remain hobbies.

He is probably not a morning person and he may be disorganized and very random. He loves nightlife and glamour and he enjoys being out, he hates being stuck in one place for long and is easily bored.

He is a dark horse as he focuses on others and often lives vicariously through them. He is not always clear on what his needs are and how to fulfil them. He is very psychic and may follow occult practices or get involved with spiritual groups to explore his gift for prophecy and perception. He is often in another world, detached and disconnected from reality.

He loves to explore mentally and his great intelligence may also be used to invent or stumble upon rare truths.

Pisces with Pisces Moon

When a Pisces Man also has a Pisces Moon, then he was born in the New Moon Phase, this heightens his spontaneity and he will like to fly by the seat of his pants. He thrives when life is dynamic and is not a person to follow a plan, he prefers to follow his heart and this makes him very flexible and adaptable, but also quite unpredictable. He is most successful when he is spur of the moment.

He has a mind for facts and figures and his memory is excellent. He is hard to argue with as he is logical and tends to see things for what they are stripping away any pretenses.

He looks at life as one endless stream of potential and he is quite adventurous. He likes to live moment to moment and is not a person who looks back or dwells. He is a very shrewd judge of character and he does not suffer fools gladly. .

He is good at knowing what to do especially in times of crisis when facts are thin on the ground and when one must rely on instinct and gut feel. He can be a little self-absorbed but he has a need to explore his own personality and follow his heart wherever it takes him.

This moon man is very sensitive, he has great empathy and yet his immense appreciation of different points of view can stifle and stunt his personal progress and cause him to become distracted from his own goals. He is easily affected by the people he is in the company of and he needs to be with solid, reliable and positive people, being with destructive, nasty or selfish people can send him into a spiral of despair, self-harm or escape via alcohol or drugs.

While he has wonderful musical and creative talents, he needs a mentor or even an agent as he himself has weak agency and he tends to blend in and follow not taking enough responsibility for his actions i.e. “they made me do it” or “everyone else was doing it” can be the excuses he makes.

He has a mysterious quality and he is warm and welcoming, you get to know him fast although the deeper aspects of him will always be a cypher. He has a certain innocence and otherworldly charm, he is far from ordinary and he has many bizarre interests.

He loves to lose himself in the struggles of others and often has humanitarian projects he gets involved in.

He needs to 'donate' his energy and so often his career involves performance or service as these are tangible ways of creating joy or being useful in a hands on way to others.

He is not very practical and business management is not his thing. He is very people orientated and you will have to share him with all his 'waifs and strays' as he loves to rescue. He is a big softy and always supports the underdog. He may have many pets that he has rescued and his home is always open for a friend in need.

He lacks boundaries big time and this will become your problem and so be aware of it. He is an empath personality, but is highly vulnerable to narcissists and energy vampires. You need to help him steer clear of users.

He may play the 'poor me' game, it is his way of getting attention and controlling life.

He is romantic and tender, but may not be affectionate or tactile. He loves role play in love. Be diplomatic with him and feed his inner child with compliments and attention. Don't pressure him or give him deadlines, he will not respond.

He needs structure and encouragement. He cannot handle aggression or being around an angry or bitter person.

He matches well with Aries, Libra, Taurus and Scorpio as he needs a firm and resolute partner who knows their own mind and can set him straight, give him some direction and anchor him.

He is moody and can be highly unpredictable and unreliable. He follows his heart and lives on inspiration, he has, like most Pisces moon men, great psychic ability and keen insight, but he may not use this in any meaningful way.

He may play martyr, focusing exclusively on the needs of others but secretly resenting it and craving attention. He is suited to the theatre as he slips into characters effortlessly and enjoys wearing costumes and playing with identities. He does not have a strong identity of his own so he often mimics or borrows from others. He is a restless, gentle soul but on a day to day level can be deceptive, he is not good at explaining himself or maybe he just can't, but the effect can be that you begin to mistrust him.

As perceptive and intuitive as he is, he can make awful decisions as he is idealistic and naive, and tends also to be led by his heart and emotions.

Pisces Moon Man and You

This section is all about how your star sign and Pisces Moon Man get on, please read your Sun Sign, but if you know your Ascendant or Moon sign you can also read those in conjunction with Pisces Moon Man – so there are potentially three sections which apply.

Pisces Moon Man with Aries Woman

Pisces moon man is not immediately attracted to Aries girl nor you to him. To you he may seem lackluster and too passive and he may find you too abrasive and direct.

Pisces moon man however likes to ease into relationships and if you are thrust together and can get to know each other when relaxed, he will begin to notice that you too are intuitive and have vision. He will soon see that there is more to you than meets the eye and you guys can share deep and meaningful conversations about esoteric and spiritual subjects. He loves your open mind and he feeds off your positive, optimistic energy.

This relationship will be a battery charger for Pisces moon man as he often feels depleted, but being with you energizes him. You however may find him a little draining and you will need space to yourself to recharge.

This can be a very comforting combination as Aries thrive from the attention and care of Pisces moon man. You are both romantics with a child-like enjoyment of life, especially when it comes to special events and occasions. Aries girl responds fast and Pisces moon man is enlivened and quickly follows your lead with verve. You may make an inseparable team who enjoy nightlife, dancing or films together. Both of you have an active imagination and this can spice up your sex lives with some intriguing games and props.

Dating should be no problem and while communication is not excessive, it is very effective as you have an ESP link that allows you both to sense and anticipate feelings.

One problem is that as an Aries you are naturally forceful and know how to get your needs met and so you can easily dominate, sending him into 'poor me' mode which is very annoying for you. You are straight talking and his vague innuendos frustrate you, you may become exasperated by his little emotion ploys.

He may retreat into himself as he finds your aggressive side unappealing and unedifying. You find his indecision and avoidance strategies tiring and you crave someone firmer and less dependent.

Aries girl only likes a follower for so long. The relationship will lack balance through no fault of either of you and overtime resentment, mistrust and opaqueness grow. You may become distant and while you still care about each other, you may drift apart.

You can provide him with motivation and more drive, which he needs, and he can help you be more sensitive and patient. You can learn from each other, but perhaps neither of you will change enough to narrow the divide.

This works best where he is Sagittarius, Capricorn, Libra or Leo.

Pisces Moon Man with Taurus Woman

This cosmic combination become friends quickly as you are both easy going, gentle characters who enjoy affection and physical closeness. You will be friends first then lovers as neither of you are fast movers in love and so things need time to develop. You will not rush each other and you may even be unsure of how deep your feelings run until a crisis develops and you rush into each other's arms.

There's magic and romance in this match as you both appreciate the world of feelings and how that is captured in art and music. I am sure you will have a special song or poem as you both like sentimental gestures. You will discuss your problems, sadness and disappointment, this is not a competitive match where you go all out to impress, it is more of a compassionate match of support and encouragement.

There is a good relationship from the get go and you will hit it off. You may both introduce each other to interesting and helpful people and networking is certainly part of your lifestyle. Your relationship is hinged on having many mutual aims which could include humanitarian or political aims and you tend to move in similar circles. If one of you is less committed to the joint goal or becomes disenchanted with it at some stage and drifts into another sphere, this can have important ramifications for the relationship.

Taurus girl finds Pisces moon man quite addictive and you enjoy his companionship, but will it just be friends for you eventually? Pisces moon man may end up being keener and he could become clingy.

The problem here is that Taurus girl is security driven and you seek a stable partner, with fixed purpose and financial prospects. Pisces moon man may not give you confidence, you may feel he is fun and entertaining, but lacks determination and zeal. He may feel flakey, you could see him as lost or unreliable.

Pisces moon man could begin to feel that you lack a desire for adventure and are too feet on the ground, he may desire greater flexibility than you offer. He loves change and seeks it, you avoid it. You plan and think about practical outcomes and he flies by the seat of his pants. Pisces moon man may see you as narrow minded, you think he is barmy.

He loves universally and you love what you can see and touch. These differences can initially intrigue and excite, but you may feel after a while that it's not what you want. Taurus girl wants concrete action and he is too much of a dreamer.

His changeable emotions and lack of ability to spell out what is on his mind is highly frustrating for you. You like consistency and enjoy confrontation, he hates confrontation and may put you on endless guilt trips for just saying what needed to be said.

This works best when he is Leo, Aquarius, Scorpio or Taurus.

Pisces Moon Man with Gemini Woman

There is an immediate attraction as you have similar yearnings and desires in life. You both value hopes and dreams and have insatiable curiosity. You will learn so much from each other as Gemini girl is open minded and Pisces moon man is eager to explore ideas with you.

You are both city people who love the buzz of the crowds, the traffic and the endless possibilities of big metropolitan hub. Together you can make things happen and open doors for each other as this match fuels ambition, but you can also run down some dead end streets wasting good money after bad.

Gemini enjoy talking, you like to have a partner who is quick and perky and often Pisces moon man is vague or moody and this annoys you. In fact you need space as you get on each other's nerves. Pisces moon man and Gemini girl may make each other anxious, this is a hyperactive relationship that often creates a cycle of stress. Gemini girl asks questions and tries to figure him out but can't, and this adds an exciting element of intrigue, but it also makes decision making hard and there are frequent changes of plans.

Gemini girl loves work and you are always seeking new information to enhance your career, Pisces moon man may feel a little passive to you, even if he is not, as you simply do not understand what makes him tick. He is highly intuitive and you are eminently logical; he is subjective and inspired, you are objective and reasonable. You may find him perplexing and he makes you feel unnerved. You may begin to wonder who really has control in the relationship, it can't be him, surely!

Or can it? His games are subtle and take you unaware, he may want to mother you, but you may end up mothering him. Black is white and white is black, there are no absolutes in this relationship, it is all a confusing round about.

Pisces moon man's struggle to find acceptance or redemption can make you ponder your own place in the world more and this may be uncomfortable. He can act as a guide, but also a disruptor in your life. If you are low or lost, he may seem like the answer but he probably isn't.

You both have to work at keeping your feet on the ground and not playing endless chess with each other. Sometimes he is in control sometimes you, but this relationship is all about growth and change it is never static.

Pisces Moon Man with Cancer Woman

Pisces moon man is drawn to the kind hearted, shy yet enthusiastic Cancer girl. He senses the tender, loving and sensitive side to you and is drawn to it. You feel like a perfect fit for him: someone who shares his vivid imagination, someone capable of deep emotions and yet someone who unlike him is secure in the material world and highly capable.

You find Pisces moon man an exotic prospect, he may seem dangerously different, he has enchanting ideas, he speaks of other worlds and he inspires you to think differently. He is not your regular date and he seems up for anything. Cancer girl likes to lead and he likes to follow. Together you are highly adventurous.

You are encouraged by the fact that he espouses high ideals and noble principles, he comes over as a person looking to help and make a difference and that appeals to you.

Cancer girl and Pisces moon man can fall quickly in love as this relationship progresses fast, but over time you realize that he is a bit of a people pleaser who has highly variable viewpoints or opinions depending on who he is talking too and you may wonder if you really know him at all.

Pisces moon man may feel that demanding Cancer girl may be trying to box him in and put pressure on him to be something he is not. You want him to be a definite something and he is definitely something, but he hasn't decided what yet.

His indecisive nature and lack of clear goals gets you down, you need a mate who is an anchor and he isn't that. You are both moody and often vulnerable and perhaps that is just too much emotion for one relationship. Pisces moon man craves more optimism and inspiration, you crave someone who is driven and knows their own mind. You both want to be the emotional one in the relationship, you may both begin to exaggerate to shift attention to yourselves.

While you are both natural empaths, what this relationship needs is one of you to step back and push emotion aside or else it overwhelms everything. In the end, one of you will end up being the sensible one and the one who feels neglected, and the other will become more complacent and indulgent of the other's love and attention.

Communication is not going to be helpful as neither of you will admit what is going on. The games are subtle.

There are many good intentions in this relationship, but you both never quite get what you need and yet you both feel you never stop giving. Perhaps the expectations you both have, have to be scaled back.

This works well where he is Gemini, Sagittarius, Capricorn or Libra.

Pisces Moon Man with Leo Woman

He knows how to get under your skin and this placement often represents the 'opposites attract' genre of unlikely match ups – what draws you together is often a mystery to onlookers. You arouse emotions both good and bad in each other and there can be themes of manipulation and control – it is vital that you both have some boundaries as with this placement lack of boundaries can cause more problems, and a compulsive sort of obsessive love affair can develop.

He has power in this relationship because he can affect your well-being to a great degree as he understands your fears, anxieties and deep seated needs. A very deep bond is possible as this love match cuts deep.

There are arguments and estrangements and yet you are always drawn back together. You can both pry and become obsessive about knowing every detail about the other one and this can become suffocating.

Leo girl is rather taken by Pisces moon man as he appeals to your sense of glamour, style and drama. He has a unique flair which you are highly attuned to, as you love a little mystique and have a taste for imaginative people. You find him charming, funny, but hard to work out.

His personality is perhaps a little too opaque and changeable for your usual liking, but it certainly gets your attention and captures your imagination. You will certainly want to get his number as you recognize there is something extraordinary about him and you do not want to lose your chance. You also sense he is vulnerable and he arouses a Leonine protective instinct in you.

Pisces moon man enjoys the vibrant and sparkling Leo personality, he totally gets your need for attention and a larger than life existence. Both of you share a desire for excitement and a taste for what is lavish and indulgent, no matter how poor you may be, you have your sights set on better things and may quickly develop plans and dreams for a fabulous future. You both have a flamboyant side, you may show it in public or leave it for behind closed doors for sexual pleasure, but it will be a feature of your life.

Together you need to be careful of going into debt as you are likely to get carried away, living for the day, with false optimism about things to come. While the ideas you develop together have potential, too many emotional ups and downs interfere with your judgement and control is lost.

This relationship has great passion, but little middle ground. Pisces moon man may fear your temper and more aggressive side and he may become secretive and emotionally guarded. You may fear that he is playing games and being untruthful and this may bring out an angry or even jealous side.

Leo girl needs a more assertive lover who can reassure you with solid and consistent demonstrations of love and affection, you seek to be protected and may find Pisces moon man is not strong enough or direct enough about how he feels. His moods and aloof periods make you crazy, you just cannot get the answers you need.

Leo girl is very positive and yet he drags an albatross around his neck, he can never get over certain events or issues and you find this like a permanent cloud that follows you about. You may see him as complicated and ever weak. Leo are turned on by courage, fixed purpose and ambition and Pisces moon man may have an approach to life that breeds too much insecurity within you.

Pisces moon man loves Leo girl, he thrives on your fire and fully buys into your expansive, outgoing energy, you have so much he adores and yet he may find you too impatient, too narrow and lacking in finesse and nuance. Leo likes dramatic bold colors in life and Pisces moon man prefers the subtlety of the impressionist.

This is a moody mix that has great potential, but which is very stormy with many disagreements.

It works best where Pisces moon man is Taurus, Scorpio, Aries or Capricorn.

Pisces Moon Man with Virgo Woman

You are both aware of and sensitive to each other's feelings. The chemistry is strong and yet it may be more emotional than sexual. There is something safe about this combination rather than sexy, unless sexiness is indicated elsewhere. You are drawn to each other as there is a security and comfort level in this match that is very appealing. This is a cosmic mix that indicates a love which starts with friendship and with you feeling comfortable with each other.

You may fall in love with him at first sight, as he has the qualities which draw you in and captivate you. There is mutual respect and compassion in this match.

This is an excellent combination that can lead to a lasting love relationship and successful marriage.

Pisces moon man feels comfortable with the shy and unassuming Virgo girl, you have a subtle yet sensible approach to life that reassures him. You are calm, yet capable and while you seem to have a great handle on things you are still flexible and vibrant.

He loves your rational mind, you seem to be able to articulate what he feels, he loves to tease you and you tend to laugh a great deal and appreciate each other's humor.

You feel at ease with him, he quickly becomes a confidante. Virgo girl does not always find it easy to open up or get close to people and yet, like magic, Pisces moon man can have you revealing emotions and getting things off your chest. You click as friends and also as lovers and there is a great desire to work as a team and cooperate.

This works well as while you are very different, you find that what each has the other lacks and thus you form an effective team.

Virgo has the earthy influence Pisces moon man so needs to help stop him drifting rudderless, and yet you are flexible and not stubborn like Taurus or Leo.

Together you embrace change and can live quite a dynamic and spontaneous life. You can both be very indecisive and this combination is thus improved if he is Aries, Leo or Scorpio.

Virgo girl finds his intuitive understanding of you and his lack of judgement a tonic, he asks few questions and this relationship has a great deal of inner peace about it as there is a quite acceptance of the way things are and a deep trust that goes beyond logic. On the downside you may both be too complacent and could even take each other for granted.

Pisces moon man benefits from the organized and objective way Virgo girl deals with life and you can help him better deal with reality, he does as you know, tend to drift off into the world of ideas or get caught up in movements or projects which consume him and also undermine him, or lead him into trouble. He needs your firm and pragmatic influence, you may be one of the few people who he listens to and who can reach him.

You may sometimes find him a little frustrating, as he may assume things and he can be random and forgetful, and you love to plan and be punctual.

However, you find in him a caring person whose devotion is very flattering and quite a surprise in this crazy world. You are both sensitive, responsive people who care naturally for others, watch out that together you do not become twin doormats for your kids or parents.

You are both people pleasers who can be passive about getting your needs met and so relationship games or exercises may help you both to be vocal about what you want in sex or affection. If you can just articulate what you need, you will get on in this cosmic mix.

This has great potential.

Pisces Moon Man with Libra Woman

Libra girl is motivated by being useful and dutiful in love with Pisces moon man and yet you risk becoming a doormat and not putting your emotional needs high enough up the list.

Even if you are a thoroughly modern woman, you may still feel that the buck stops with you and you bear most of the domestic responsibility. You have your finger on the pulse and tend to be the one who sorts out practical problems and knows what your Pisces moon partner needs.

He probably cannot cope without you and that is where your power lies. This is a very good combo for Pisces moon man as by knowing you he will adopt better fitness and health practices or at least be more aware of health and hygiene.

Pisces moon man immediately warms to Libra girl and wants to get to know you better, while Pisces moon man is not necessarily good with words he loves a chatty, intelligent and thoughtful partner.

He enjoys your charm and effusive manner and feels secure as you are so socially confident. He likes the fact that you are tactful but firm, he needs a strong partner with drive and also creative energy.

Pisces moon man and Libra are both very cooperative people and this relationship is highly functional as you are happy to do things for each other and this cosmic match brings out a practical and dutiful side in you.

Libra girl is one for the arts, style and culture and Pisces moon man has not only a natural appreciation, but often great knowledge, of these things.

Pisces moon man may find Libra girl very reassuring and helpful, but you may not respond emotionally in the way he desires, as you are an air sign keen to be objective and not to get carried away with feelings. He seeks more depth of feeling and may find you closed or even superficial.

You enjoy some escapism with him and that fuels romance and sexual excitement, but you may feel he does not know when to switch that side of himself off and take control. You could see him as unreliable and feel that the buck always stops with you.

You may increasingly have to look after him and manage his life.

The onus is often on Libra in this relationship, you tend to feel responsible for him and can end up doing more and more to please him or just in terms of day to day things. Pisces moon man does give back, but he may not do so in ways that have value for you.

Libra girl desires an assertive partner who can stand up to you and challenge you and he may be too much of a pushover. You could feel he lacks ambition or direction in life and that loses your respect.

On the other hand, you are both people pleasers who could fall into a habit of pleasing both each other and other people to the point of exhaustion.

This match often leads to productive outcomes, it all seems good on the surface and yet there is so much disappointment and resentment underneath, as you just cannot deal with emotional issues which are always put on hold.

You won't confront each other and even if you did, there is no guarantee it would advance the situation as you are so different in terms of what makes you happy on a deep level.

This works best where Pisces moon man is Capricorn, Virgo, Libra or Aries as he will have the assertive and alpha power you seek and there is more balance to the dreamy, escapist nature of Pisces moon.

This can work if you like a sensitive caring man who is very romantic, yet sometimes far away with the fairies and you enjoy being the partner in control calling the shots with little resistance.

Pisces Moon Man with Scorpio Woman

You are really buoyed by his presence in your life and you will tend to suffer more should he want to call it off, as it would be a big blow to your self-esteem.

You love to be center of his attention and yet while this is great when you are dating, it can be hard when real life sets in and you are both tired and distracted by work.

This love match suffers problems as it matures and as real world problems, especially in relation to the time available for love and fun, become pressing. You may be too dependent on Pisces moon man to provide laughter, positivity and excitement in the relationship and that creates a lot of pressure and expectation for him to live up to.

Scorpio girl enjoys the company of Pisces moon man as he is rather mysterious and alluring, you as a fellow water sign, are ideally placed to appreciate his tender and vulnerable nature. Scorpio girl and Pisces moon man are natural allies as Scorpio are often rebels who like living on the edge of society or the group, rather than being slap bang in the center, and Pisces moon man feels like an outsider.

You may both be cynics keen to dissect and analyze humans and their behavior. You can fast become a close knit couple who are quite passionate.

This mixture is very creative and you may enjoy spending your time together having unusual adventures, your tastes in romance can be quite unique and even a little fetishist.

You like to spend your romantic time secluded or travelling as your relationship is very much based on escapism and getting away from it all.

Scorpio loves the depth of Pisces moon man, as he has passion, he has a guiding faith and his complicated nature is intriguing to you. You grasp many of his grievances, pains and traumas as you have been there done that. It may feel like you are emotional doppelgangers, if one sign can understand Pisces moon man it's Scorpio and you can have an amazing healing effect on him. He pays you a great deal of attention and you feel validated, this relationship is very rewarding for you and you grow in confidence and self-esteem.

There is fun, love, laughs and enjoyment in this match. It can be a big time romance. You are emotionally suited and Scorpio girl is not perturbed by his quiet moments where he is distracted and distant as you do not want a constant motor mouth or permanent joker type partner. You are a serious and soulful couple who enjoy life in a very personal way.

You can reassure each other and form strong bonds of trust. This works best where Pisces moon man is Leo Aquarius, Taurus or Capricorn.

Both of you experience profound attachment to certain ideas, projects and goals, you get emotionally involved in what you do and you respect that in each other, if your interests combine, the sky's the limit.

At times the vacillation of Pisces moon man is frustrating to you and you won't encourage him to express excessive neediness. You may desire more consistency and could find his erratic behavior and lack of basic organization annoying. You dislike the more random aspects of his character. Often you compete to get attention and may try and outdo each other in terms of self-pity. You can both play the 'poor me' game.

You can end up feeling responsible for each other's emotional state and that can create a deep burden. You both have to realize that there is only so much you can do to rescue the other.

Scorpio girl cannot help but manipulate Pisces moon man as you know him too well, you see where his buttons are and cannot resist pushing them.

Pisces Moon Man with Sagittarius Woman

You will feel very relaxed with Pisces moon man and he gives you a sense of security and stability – he may help anchor you. He however may be more restless and that can cause some disagreement.

From the get go there is a strong desire to make this relationship permanent and you may go steady and move in quite fast. You enjoy ‘nesting’ together and may be a couple who enjoys spending time at home and entertaining.

Your home is something you share pride in and you will often build on or improve your home where possible. You can be quite an exclusive couple who enjoy privacy rather than.

This cosmic mix favors long term love and bonding, but there can be some emotional dependence which becomes a negative thing. You may mirror and thus magnify each other’s emotions and thus you need more space so that you can both re-center yourself.

Pisces moon man is captivated by the vital, energetic and positive attitude of Sagittarius girl. He is drawn to your energy as he perceives that you are the foil for his shy, vulnerable and emotionally conflicted nature. Your confidence and the way you embrace life are a tonic for him and he feels secure and also excited.

Pisces moon man often cares too much and feels too deeply, he needs Sagittarius girl to show him how to live for the moment, to laugh and be daring and to brush things off rather than brooding. Your forward looking nature appeals to his imagination, he wants to aim high with you, only thing is, is he just dreaming or is he actually planning with you. Sagittarius girl needs to watch out for signs of action as it is often words not deeds with Pisces moon man.

You both have high ideals and enjoy giving back or devoting energy to issues in the wider world, you can both be selfless and this humanitarian spirit unites you. Sagittarius adores stories and revels in Pisces moon Man's colorful tales, his imagination and humor delight you. You enjoy new pastures and Pisces moon man never ceases to surprise you as he is a personality kaleidoscope.

You ate both flexible people, who enjoy change, like variety and get quickly bored and so together you can lead quite a dynamic, if not hectic life.

Pisces moon man has a way of soothing you and you instinctively feel you can relax with him and be yourself. This works even better when he is Cancer, Capricorn, Virgo or Leo.

One problem here, is that Sagittarius girl looks forward and forgives easily, Pisces moon man has a long memory and tends to harbor angers and bitterness for a long time. He allows things to eat away at him, he struggles to let go and free himself of the past.

You may become frustrated with his self-pitying side, you may feel he is too passive and allows himself to get caught in negative cycles instead of embracing the future. Sagittarius girl is an excellent advice giver and his needy side arouses the wise sage in you as well as the Good Samaritan, it's an ego hook to feel you are offering him positive and inspirational words, but will you tire of it and of him when you find that some things run so deep that you cannot stem the flow.

He is deeply sensitive and Sagittarius girl is not always tactful, you call a spade a shovel and he takes offence easily, this leads to long periods of silent treatment, which really grates on you as you like to apologize and move on.

Pisces moon man may crave more love and attention than you can give, you may feel impatient with his emotional needs and be less and less willing to respond. You may feel incapable of understanding him or maybe you sense what is there is so dark, you don't want to go there. He can wear you down and drain you.

For Pisces moon man, Sagittarius girl may be abrasive, self-centered and careless with words, you may fail to deliver on promises and he may become distrustful or disappointed. To be fair both of you may have unrealistic expectations of each other and this mars the relationship. You may both be terrible with money and this love match needs to be careful not to wind up flat broke.

While this can be a wild and exciting match of parties and travel, it may encourage excess and waste and could be destructive. One of you has to change to make this work and Pisces moon man won't find that easy and you won't find that palatable.

Pisces Moon Man with Capricorn Woman

This cosmic mix assists in communication, especially about feelings, rather than just superficial chatter. It deepens the intellectual side of relationship and increases emotional rapport. You enjoys sharing emotions with Pisces moon man and he is able to comfort you.

He may have a large family and thus have many new relatives to bring into your life. Pisces moon man should relate well to your siblings and cousins and there should be a good atmosphere within the extended family and much visiting and coming and going.

He enjoys the way you think and reasons things out and even if he does not quite get you intellectually he intuitively understands where you are coming from.

Pisces moon man and Capricorn girl may have many mutual interests and may move in similar circles, you will be friendly and cordial, but perhaps not romantically attracted at first.

As you get to know each other, you will find that the communication side of the relationship far outpaces the romance, as you share ideas and thoughts or work effectively together.

Over time however you begin to get far more curious about each other. Capricorn girl is enticed into the Pisces moon man's world, you see a glimpse of a rainbow or hear wonderful music, he can enchant you with his stories, his lofty dreams and his appreciation of the finer points of art and music.

You appreciate his sensitivity and both of you have an arty side. Pisces moon man can help you get in touch with your imaginative and impulsive spirit releasing some of that latent creative potential. You enjoy the way he is so idealistic and so connected to the world in terms of his understanding of trends and the social climate.

He can be both relaxing and entertaining company as he represents something alien to your overt nature and yet very in tune with your inner nature.

You offer Pisces moon the reliable, stalwart partner he has always craved, you make him secure and imbue him with confidence even though he can find you a stick in the mud at times. While you may not be the adventurous, flexible and talkative partner he usually prefers, he likes what he sees and thinks you are a keeper.

Both of you are vulnerable and have something to prove, but while you are dogged in proving yourself and overcoming your past and its effect on you, he is more of an avoider. You should try and understand the underlying issues each has, but not seek to impose solutions on each other.

This can be a very supportive match with great variety, you won't get bored. One problem is that you can both get blue and so it helps if Pisces moon man is Sagittarius, Gemini, Libra or Aries, so that depressing negative cycles can be broken.

You are alert to each other's needs and find it easy to express sadness, joy and everything in between to each other. Pisces moon man can get behind your mask, and this is what you need to learn to truly enjoy life and love. You can bring Pisces moon man down to earth, not with a bump, but with the delightful crash of a wave onto a sandy beach as you introduce him to sensual pleasures.

This mix needs work, but Capricorn girl will think it worth the challenge and Pisces moon man is not going anywhere.

Pisces Moon Man with Aquarius Woman

He may play a big role in structuring your finances. In some cases, you may become too dependent on him financially and emotionally – he in turn may feel burdened by your issues and responsible for all your emotions and reactions.

You will thrive around Pisces moon man and he will help bring you out of your shell. He has a very big influence on your self-worth and in some cases he may manipulate that as it gives him power.

I think this combination will have, "One flash of light that shows the way, no mortal man can win this day." There is something otherworldly about this combination and I suspect it will manifest as a chance meeting in bizarre circumstances that leads to a spiritual romance and deep bond.

Whatever happens this promises to be an intense, but unorthodox relationship. You may both write your own rules and settle for something open ended that satisfies your needs but confounds others. A mutual passion may draw you together and cement the relationship. This can be a loyal and enduring love relationship, although jealousy and game playing will be part of the dynamic.

Aquarius girl is quickly captivated by the impish and charming Pisces moon man, he is not at all straightforward and you become curious about him. He seems open minded, filled with ideas and open to new experiences and you think this is fabulous. He appears to be compassionate, unselfish and expresses humanitarian ideas making him seem just up your street. You are both idealists who think laterally and who enjoy taking life as it comes and responding quickly to new directions.

Pisces moon man enjoys the Aquarian free spirit, he sees you as his Nirvana. You have a certain firmness about you and you seem capable and self-assured, but not pig headed and he likes that. He enjoys your tolerance and of course Aquarius girls are rebels which totally suits Pisces moon man who has always felt an outsider, together you can give one finger to the in crowd.

Over time however the detached Aquarius girl may not offer Pisces moon man enough positive reinforcement or attention. He needs constant reassurance, advice, feedback or kindness to feel loved. Once you realize he is quite needy you recoil.

He may make you fearful or anxious, his negative moods may undermine your own confidence or sense of security. Being with him involves you asking deep questions about yourself, that need not be a bad thing, but do you need it?

Pisces moon man may find Aquarius girl does not get emotions the way he does and you may poo poo some of his ideas. He could find your routines and stubborn nature grating. The more you try and rationalize, the more he uses hysteria or drama to control things.

Life together can become draining and very complicated, but you are loyal to each other and disinclined to walk away as things between you run deep despite everything.

Pisces Moon Man with Pisces Woman
