Introduction

Perhaps you've heard of the power of repeating affirmations. From pop psychology proponents to spiritual gurus the world over, affirmations are one of the most popular tools.

It's no surprise at all. Think of affirmations as personal magic spells. When you speak, write or recite an affirmation, you are describing the world as you mean it to be.

We do this all the time without being conscious of it. That is to say, we frequently call out what we perceive the world to be, but in the most negative of ways. Consider a woman who constantly repeats (mentally and out loud) the phrase "I just can't trust people, they always let me down!" and then repeatedly falls into a pattern of self-fulfilling prophecies when the negativity of this message attracts the exact type of relationship she wanted to avoid!

Affirmations work because they frame our perceptions. If we're looking for trouble, we'll find it. But if we're looking for positivity and empowerment, we'll find that as well.

Hence the power of affirmation. When you use affirmations, you're "programming" your mind to align with certain possibilities. Repeat an affirmation enough and it becomes your reality.

How Affirmations Work (and Why You Should Start Using Them NOW)

I'm actually super excited to offer this guide to you. I've been using affirmations for decades, discovering their power, fortunately, at a very young age. I've also been using affirmations with my clients in a very specific way. A way that is unique and not used in other forums.

There are plenty of generic affirmation lists floating around. But this guide specifically was designed with affirmations that SPEAK to the subconscious needs of a Scorpio woman.

These affirmations are specially tailored to help you usher in the transformation Scorpio women need to live up to your highest potential. I'll talk about that in more detail later.

What You Absolutely NEED to do to Make Your Affirmations Powerful

Now, before we get started, there are a few important keys you need to understand. Affirmations are not to be used carelessly. Simply reciting words robotically is almost useless. I mean, there may be some level of subconscious connection occurring even if you don't mean what you say. But any affirmation will be more potent if it reflects how you truly feel.

So if you recite an affirmation just because I suggest it, but you don't BELIEVE in it, well, you would be better off slightly adjusting it so that it remains empowering yet is also believable. Affirmations rely on cooperation from your subconscious. Your subconscious mind knows what you truly do and don't believe. You can't lie to your subconscious. So it's best to modify an affirmation slightly if you have to.

Now, you may be wondering, why affirmations for the Scorpio woman?

Well, truth be told any woman (or man) can benefit from these affirmations. But I created these based on specific traits that Scorpio women are known for. On the one hand, you'll find specially tailored affirmations that address your key strengths and personality power. On the other hand, I have also included specific affirmations created to address the biggest Scorpio woman hang ups.

In this way, using these affirmations will both help you find greater transformation and empowerment but also to heal your deeper wounds and insecurities.

Repeat these in meditation, especially aloud. Read a new one on a daily basis or choose specifically the best affirmation for your particular situation on a given day. You can also write the affirmations in your journal or write them numerous times. Repetition is key.

Saying or writing an affirmation only once doesn't yield much effect. You are using them in a transformational and creative process. Repetition helps "seal" them into your subconscious. Recite them in the morning or before bed. Type them out on your laptop or write them by hand. Experiment with the style of recitation that works best for you.

Why Scorpio Women NEED these Affirmations

Since Scorpio is the sign of rebirth and transformation, many of these affirmations deal with this specific process. You'll also find affirmations for love, attraction, manifestation and abundance.

They have been specially designed to speak to the soul and subconscious of a Scorpio woman. Each sign has a purpose and mission. The stars imbue us each with the power we need to fulfill our special mission.

But...

With each gift comes unique types of healing. With each type of power and skill comes a responsibility to use it wisely. The Universe gives us the special talents we need, but then we are born into a less-than-perfect world. This imperfect world wounds us.

How we are wounded and how these wounds shape us can be influenced by the priorities and desires given to us within our Astrological makeup. But suffice it to say, the core wounds, insecurities and obstacles faced by Scorpio women is very different than the wounds and obstacles others face.

The strengths of a Scorpio woman are also unique. By knowing how to coax the deeper powers such as intuition, perception, truth telling and transformation can be enhanced and expanded with the use of these affirmations as well.

You can rise to your highest potential, release the baggage and wounds unique to a Scorpio woman, and take your transformation deeper with the help of these affirmations specially designed to unleash your deeper, powerful nature. Let's begin!

I courageously face my Shadow Self so I can heal and transform.

Scorpio is the sign of rebirth and transformation. It's also one of the toughest Sun Signs, Karmically speaking. After all, if you're going to be the sign of release and transformation, chances are your path isn't going to be the easiest.

The sign of rebirth is also, by necessity, the sign of loss, purging and cleansing. Scorpio needs to dig deep to uncover hidden truths and the truth can often hurt.

Yet by facing the "Shadow Self" or the dark side of your personality, you can find much deeper healing and transformation. There's always a silver lining to doing Shadow work. All you have to do is be willing to see all facets of your personality, good, bad and downright scary.

Once you do, you'll be able to honestly embrace and love all sides of yourself. Even the sides of your personality that you don't like to reveal publicly.

Scorpio energy is all about embracing all sides of your dark inner nature. Whether you project it out publicly or delve into this deeper part of yourself privately, one way or another, you must face the repressed aspects of yourself. Scorpio's biggest lessons involve mastering this challenge.

You can use this affirmation to remind yourself that you don't have to be perfect. In fact, you need to become comfortable with your dark side so that you can find greater fulfillment.

Trying to put forth the image of perfection and idealism doesn't serve you. It only holds you back. Use this affirmation to help you embrace all aspects of your personality.

My intuition is powerful and grounded in spiritual roots.

As the sign of transformation and rebirth, your energy is also associated with the cycle of death and new beginnings. This gives you a close connection to the spiritual realms. Your sign's rulers are Mars and Pluto.

Pluto, you may recall, is the God of the Underworld. So you are naturally attuned to the afterlife, to spiritual guides and of course, your intuition is legendary.

Yet a Scorpio whose intuition isn't spiritually centered can become zealous and obsessed with power. Like the Sorcerer's Apprentice segment in the Disney film Fantasia, without spiritual roots, you can become fixated on power for the sake of power.

This usually does not bear the positive results you are otherwise capable of. Instead of becoming entranced by your spiritual gifts and potentially being tempted to misuse them, it's best to use affirmations like this to keep yourself grounded. Your intuition can be on target, or can be confused with wishful thinking. You need to have a solid sense of spiritual framework to protect yourself and your focus.

I easily attract resources I need to thrive.

Scorpio is like a magnet when it comes to manifestation and attraction. Yet for all your natural potential to attract wealth and status, you often fear scarcity.

You may have a wide array of opportunities and resources but become obsessed with what you don't have. This doesn't help with the manifestation process and can make things harder on you emotionally.

Use this affirmation to re-center yourself and remind yourself that you truly have everything you need.

“Resources” is not a very sexy term. Yet “Wealth” which I use elsewhere in this book, can be misleading. While wealth doesn't have to just mean money, we often think it does.

Yet resources, as unglamorous as it sounds, is a good reminder that sometimes friends, supports and a solid social network is worth its weight in gold. Sometimes all the money in the bank falls short if the resources you really need, like your health, are threatened.

This affirmation, then, is about your full scale range of resources from money to access to transportation to health to social supports. This is a reminder that you have an abundance of options because of your many resources.

I release envy today, everything I need is already here.

Ok Scorpio sister, you know and I know that envy is a bit of a problem. Well, maybe more than just a bit. One of the deep, dark secrets of the Scorpio psyche is your potential for jealousy.

You are cautious and carefully guard your vulnerability. I don't blame you. But think back on all the times envy has put a damper on your successes or worse. Your notorious potential for jealousy can cast shadows on an otherwise great relationship.

You deserve to enjoy what you've worked to establish and envy can ruin this. So use this affirmation to reset your mind and "neutralize" this less helpful aspect of the Scorpio personality.

Just remember that what seems like greener grass in someone else's yard is likely no better than the abundance at your own fingertips. When you become willing and ready to let go of envy, you'll have so much more energy to use manifesting your ideal goals rather than fretting over someone else's accomplishments.

You have nothing to feel insecure about, Scorpio woman. You're already much more powerful and capable than you give yourself credit for.

I am a powerful catalyst for transformation.

To put it bluntly, it is the “job” of a Scorpio woman to embody this affirmation. This is literally a key part of your mission as a Scorpio woman. Mars and Pluto work together in your sign to create profound transformation in your life and in the lives of others.

Its not always an easy job. But some would say we sign up for these tasks before birth. Remind yourself when the going gets tough. You weren't put into this life by accident.

You are indeed a powerful catalyst for transformation. There is no transformation without loss. There is no transformation without hardship. There is no transformation without releasing what you thought you needed.

Use this affirmation for confidence and for a reminder of your true source of power. Also use this transformative affirmation when you feel overwhelmed by changes and forces beyond your control. Keep reciting this affirmation to remind yourself that you are a catalyst for change. Just exactly what will come of your transformative process may remain to be seen, but you are on track to be a significant healer and mentor for others.

I radiate beauty and confidence.

A Scorpio woman's charm and beauty is legendary. Without even trying, you radiate a mystique that drives men crazy. Yet often, I meet Scorpio women who have all the right gifts of radiance, beauty, confidence, intelligence and intuition, but have no idea just how powerful they are!

If you find yourself chasing a man who isn't showing you the respect you deserve, use this affirmation. If you find yourself second guessing your worth and value, use this affirmation. If you find yourself feeling unattractive, alone or worrying you'll never meet "the One" use this affirmation.

Basically, any time you need a boost to your confidence or need to be reminded of your beauty, use this affirmation to center yourself.

This is not just about the superficial beauty of physical appearance. For a Scorpio woman, your beauty is obvious but you are also concerned with more than what is skin deep. You need to feel beautiful in every way.

And like all women, sometimes you need a reminder.

Let this affirmation serve as that reminder of your true charm, beauty and power that involves more than physical image alone.

Sex is a form of power, my sexuality is an extension of my Divine Feminine side.

Scorpio is the sign associated with powerful transformation, including the transformative power of sexuality. That's why sexual expression is so vital to a Scorpio woman. Yet wounds related to sexual identity and the use of sexual power are also deeply embedded in a Scorpio woman's mind.

These wounds can be brought about because of social traditions that repress or critique the sexual power of women. They can also be Karmic wounds from various past lifetimes.

Regardless of their source, Scorpio women have the power to transform themselves and their lives by drawing on sexual energy and exploring their Divine feminine side. It is part of a Scorpio woman's gifts to be able to use the transformative power of sex for healing and deeper understanding of her own creative abilities.

Use this mantra to reclaim your sexual power and the transformative and creative powers of sexual identity and expression.

I easily release what no longer serves me today.

Truth be told, lots of women could use this affirmation. We all carry the weight of the world on our shoulders. But you, Scorpio woman, need a reminder of the importance of release. Purging, letting go and releasing is in your energetic matrix, Scorpio woman.

Your sign's co-ruling planet, Pluto, is literally named for the God of the Underworld. The great hereafter in myth isn't about fluffy clouds in the sky, but about the world below this one, where energy is cleared, healed and purged. Where we are released of our faults and shackles and find transformation and freedom.

This is the kind of "let it all go" power we are really talking about here, Scorpio woman. This is a needed reminder of your power to release and replenish. Today is a great day to start sifting through any clutter (physical or emotional). What have you been "collecting" or holding on to? Are you storing resentments or old wounds away? Today is a great reminder you have no need to hang on to what is just taking up "space" in your mind or in your life.

That can mean letting go of what you think should happen in a relationship, letting go of the way you think people should respond, letting go of the pressure others try to place on you at work, letting go of conflicts from the past, even letting go of the judgments you hold over yourself or others.

Through loss I can find healing and power.

Release is such an empowering term. But the flipside of release is loss. There is no use talking about letting go without also talking realistically about loss. You are no stranger to pain, Scorpio woman, you are well acquainted with your share of loss as well.

But you're equipped to take the losses that would make some people crumble and turn them into life changing, healing experiences. Your sign's co-ruling planet, Pluto, is the planet of death and rebirth, loss and transformation. You can embrace the process of loss and delve deep even into the painful side of grief and come out a powerful, warrior woman.

But first you have to acknowledge the loss and the grief.

By embracing the losses you've faced, you can transform your pain into healing. You can also become a wise guide and mentor to help others transform the pain they've gone through, having walked through this path yourself.

Success comes from releasing willpower and being open to Divine Guidance.

Ok Scorpio woman, there are a few ways that your natural gifts can also sometimes undermine your true success if you're not careful. One of these gifts is your sublime willpower. You have an amazing gift for willfulness and inner strength. You can climb the highest mountain when you want to.

But you can also dig yourself into a hole just to prove a point and nothing more.

Rest assured, you also have the capability to tone down your willful side when you need to.

But why would you ever NOT want to act from your own willpower?

Well, you are also very intuitive, Scorpio woman. The problem is, intuition doesn't come from your willpower. It comes from higher guidance. Often the higher guidance you need is softer and more gentle than the fierce and assertive willpower that pushes you forward.

Surrendering willpower is intimidating to you, Scorpio woman, because it seems like you're being asked to give up. It seems like you're being asked to acquiesce to someone else's power. Sometimes, though, that other power is the power of your higher wisdom speaking to you.

When you only act on willpower, you're placing all your energy squarely in your ego and pushing out the importance of your connection to the Divine. In order to remain open to the Divine, you need to be able to hold the balance between your insistence on having your own way and acknowledge maybe the Universe has a bigger, better plan for you.

I easily attract love and admirers.

You have a magnetic charm, Scorpio woman. You can easily attract admirers who come right out of the woodwork. Your heart may be set on one specific individual right now, but it helps to just notice all the admirers and friends who are easily drawn to your power and charm.

Notice the people who go out of their way to help you. Notice the people who can't get enough of you. Notice how easily your smile or laugh can disarm people. Remind yourself, Scorpio woman, of your attraction power.

This is important because however powerful and attractive you are, you sometimes forget. You sometimes forget because you can be so focused on the one person, the one thing, for which you strive. So intent is your focus on the one who may not return your love and attraction, that you may miss the ten people waiting to throw themselves on the ground at your feet while your attention is distracted by the one who remains aloof.

You may altogether miss how much you are in demand because you are only focused on the object of your desire. Today, step back and notice how many people are willing to show love and admiration, completely devoted to you.

I can trust myself and so I can trust in others.

“Is he someone I can trust?”

Scorpio women often ask me this. The key to understand, Scorpio woman, is that while some men are more or less trustworthy than others, and the chart may signal a few red flags that show whether he is trustworthy or not, the bottom line is, can you trust yourself?

Because if you can trust yourself, Scorpio woman, you will know what doesn't sit right in your gut. You'll have a sense that something is off. If you can trust yourself, you'll know when your boundaries are really being breached.

What does it take to trust yourself?

You need to be confident in the boundaries you set, confident in your intuition, and secure enough in yourself so that you can discern doubts and fears from actual intuition.

When you can trust yourself, you'll naturally start to weed out the people in your life who aren't trustworthy. You won't feel compelled to hold on to dysfunctional relationships with toxic people. You'll trust yourself enough to know you deserve better than to stay in a relationship with someone who tries to negate your boundaries in the first place.

My boundaries protect me naturally, I can release fear.

When you have appropriate boundaries, you can let go of fears that something bad will happen. Often, Scorpio women hold on to the pains and wounds from the past and wonder if they will be subjected to the same poor treatment and traumas again and again.

But having solid boundaries can be much more effective than just shutting down your vulnerability, as Scorpio women are often tempted to do.

When you shut down your sensitive side, you're also shutting down your intuition and your own powerful "radar" that helps you discern whether someone is actually a threat.

It's no surprise that Scorpio women who feel unable to trust or who decide to shut down altogether to avoid being hurt are actually more likely to walk right into the kind of toxic situation they are trying to protect themselves from.

Instead of locking the door to your heart and throwing away the key, it is far better to remain open and flexible but knowing your worth and setting firm boundaries so you can protect yourself from those who don't respect your value.

Using this mantra can help you remember that you have the power to set your boundaries and keep yourself safe in relationships, even if it means being ok with saying goodbye to those who turn out to not respect who you are.

I easily manifest my desires.

A Scorpio woman's mind is like a magic wand. What you focus on with great passion and intention has a way of manifesting.

Sooner or later, you draw to yourself exactly what you needed. Always trust your intuition and also trust the process.

Remind yourself of this power, and even jumpstart the process, by telling yourself this mantra.

When it seems like things aren't manifesting quickly enough, it just means you are somewhere in the process. It will happen in the best way possible.

It may not be immediate, it may not look exactly the way you imagine today, but you are easily attracting what you need.

My focus and ambition help me succeed.

Scorpio women are notoriously ambitious and can be focused like a laser beam. You may forget these great strengths you possess, Scorpio woman, but when you use this affirmation, you are remembering and re-aligning yourself with your true potential.

That potential for success is largely born from your tenacious nature and unstoppable commitment to reach the finish line. When you want something, you'll climb mountains, dig tunnels and move through any obstacles in your way.

Your keen intellect and strong intuition lead you to deep discoveries and to follow the path you need to walk in order to find success. You may need to take some time to put the clues together though, your determination helps you succeed.

A Scorpio woman knows hardship and challenges. But what frustrates you also makes you stronger and for a Scorpio woman, the transformation can be complete and intense.

Use this affirmation when you need to reassert your full belief and awareness that your past wounds and challenges are also a clear channel that leads to your greatest power. You are propelled forward by a search for truth and a desire to get to the bottom of things.

This can also make you nearly obsessed with the past. You dig and dig to try to fully understand the dynamics that lead you to the situation you are presently in. This can involve dredging up a fair amount of painful memories and bad situations. Yet you can also find strength in your past hardships.

Reminding yourself that you are more than your wounds and stronger because of the challenges you faced can make it easy for you to transmute the past pains you suffered into sources of pride and resilience.

I am closely connected to my Ancestors in the Spiritual Realm.

We all get distracted by the hustle and bustle of mundane life. Next thing you know, Scorpio woman, you are in the midst of trying to figure out how you will blast through an obstacle or clear a hurdle. You suddenly find yourself trying to do the impossible and feeling like life is one uphill battle after another.

What can you do?

Sometimes, nothing, Scorpio woman.

Sometimes, it's not up to you.

Sometimes you've got to rock the Wonder Woman cape. But other times you've got to hang it up and leave things in the hands of a force more powerful than yourself.

Yes, Scorpio woman, I know and you know that you are in fact a power to be reckoned with. But you also tend to take on too much. You sometimes actually think it is your job to fix everything that is wrong in the world.

You carry the weight of the universe on your shoulders and try to convince yourself that something is wrong if you can't single handedly solve all of life's problems without any help.

In truth, nothing is wrong with you. You are human. This reminder may seem obvious but it bears repeating: you are human. But you're not alone.

You're guarded and guided by the ancestors and those in Spirit who are walking with you every moment. Those who have come before you and those who work with you to ensure your success.

Of course, sometimes what your Ancestors and guides have in mind for you as the perfect version of success is not what you think you need. Sometimes the guy you had your eyes on or the dream job or new house that was going to make all your troubles disappear are not the true best options for you.

Sometimes what you truly need is something you may not think you want or perhaps can't even imagine. So you try to outwit the Universe and chase your dreams but find it to be an uphill battle.

“Why are none of my manifestations working?” you may ask yourself.

And the simple answer, Scorpio woman, is that when the doors aren't opening for you, you're waiting at the wrong entrance. You think your big opportunity is in one direction and in truth it may not be.

But your Ancestors and guides know what is truly best for you. They haven't forgotten you and they haven't lost sight of what is truly needed. Be open to what they are showing you, even if you don't understand the bigger plan right away. Use this mantra to remind yourself that you are never truly alone, Scorpio woman.

I am protected and safe.

Another essential issue for you, Scorpio woman is that of safety and security. Often you feel like the world is against you and you can't trust others. I understand this sentiment. After all, you feel deeply and your wounds cut right to the core of your being.

You never want anyone to get the best of you and your high intelligence and intuition can help to ensure that you are always second guessing yourself and trying to read between the lines so that you won't be played for a fool.

Yet if you take this suspicious nature too far you can lose your sense of security and have a hard time trusting others.

Use this affirmation to remind yourself that you are in fact safe and create your own security. You may want to have full control over your surroundings. You may wish others would prove their trustworthiness up front. But even when situations are not ideal and others don't respond as they should, Scorpio woman, your ability to keep yourself secure begins with you and is not truly dependent on others.

Your protection is both practical, born from your intelligence and intuition, and also spiritual. Remember, your guides and powers that be in the Universe are looking out for your own best interest.

You are protected and safe, Scorpio woman. Use this affirmation to remind yourself of this. You'll also be creating these conditions by aligning your mind (planning, thinking and strategizing) with opportunities that only contribute to your safety and security.

Reinvention could be your middle name, Scorpio woman. Of all the signs of the Zodiac, yours is defined by your propensity for reinvention and transformation.

When you go through a major milestone or change, you may use the opportunity to kick off some kind of dramatic change to identity. When one thing is transformed, everything is transformed. You may completely change your look, career and home when go through a personal milestone such as the end of a relationship.

You may not feel that grief or even closure are complete until you have gone through your life and completely renovated every aspect of yourself and your priorities.

When you go through a loss or change it may feel like it's time for everything to change. You may feel restless to shed your skin and start anew. Look at times of loss not as failure but as signals that it is time for complete personal transformation from top to bottom.

Welcome the needed changes in your life. Welcome the transformation that allows you to really let go of the past on a deeper level and reinvent yourself. You're not just taking on a new fashion, you're getting in touch with mysterious and hidden aspects of your nature. Parts of yourself you didn't know existed.

Deeper truth liberates me.

Scorpio woman if there is one thing you are always on the hunt for it is the deeper truth and hidden meaning. When you find deeper truths and wisdom concealed in the subconscious layers of your (or other's) minds, you may be unsettled at first. Yet you are ultimately liberated.

The saying "The truth shall set you free" probably came from a Scorpio woman.

You believe that getting to the heart of the matter is always liberating. Yet sometimes you may forget this. You can lose perspective and find the truth to be frustrating again and again.

Especially when the deeper truth involves issues you don't really want to face. When you forget how liberating truth can be, it is easy to instead get lost in the demanding, thankless, tiring and frustrating work of constantly seeing things for what they are or speaking truth to those who would wish to be blissfully ignorant.

Yet you don't seek the truth to appease those around you, Scorpio woman. After all, you know the deeper truth seldom brings comfort or appeasement. Instead, you seek the deeper truth because you know it will eventually bring you freedom and relief from the burdens of ignorance. This, for you, is the greater prize.

Use this affirmation when you need to keep your desire for truth in perspective. When you find yourself asking "why do I bother doing this in the first place?"

I easily attract and share wealth.

Yours is the sign of great wealth and power. How could it not be with Pluto as your sign's co-ruling planet?

Yet even when you aren't exactly where you would like to be financially, Scorpio woman, it is worth reminding yourself that attracting wealth is relatively easy for you.

You do in fact easily attract wealth and abundance. What you do with it and how you channel and share it is up to you. But you easily attract exactly the resources you need.

And not just for a life of scrimping and frugality. You attract the wealth you need in order to live in alignment with your purpose.

Now, maybe your purpose has nothing to do with a new sportscar and so you haven't manifested that yet. Yet what are you attracting?

If you pay attention, you'll see you are attracting valuable tools and opportunities. You just need to be reminded of how these resources are helping you to serve your purpose.

Use this affirmation to help you remember what your purpose is and how to use your true power to attract what you need in order to fulfill your purpose. And remember, your purpose never involves hoarding. It is all about redistributing and sharing with those around you, continuing to circulate the energy that wealth creates.

I can release with love and compassion.

This is a hard lesson for you to learn, Scorpio woman. You always feel like you need to have the last word or the last laugh at least. You have a deep and vengeful side when you are hurt or when your resentments are provoked.

It's hard for you to let go. You equate doing so with giving up and being seen as weak.

Yet you also have tremendous capacity to release with love and compassion. You can usher in your desire for transformation and rebirth if you try. What is needed is sometimes not “more effort” but rather less effort to hold on to what is no longer serving you.

When you become willing to let go, you make space for new growth and opportunities. You make it possible for your own transformation to occur.

Divine Source is my inspiration.

You are closely linked with the Divine, Scorpio woman. You can be creative and your creative energy can be essential to managing your intense emotions. Your inspiration can be downright psychic at times.

Put another way, you are easily and always tuned in to Divine Source as your inspiration. Your higher wisdom is linked with your source of inspiration and not all of your ideas are your own.

To some extent you know this, Scorpio woman. You know your intuition often compels you forward and that insights sometimes strike you from out of thin air. You know that sometimes you are able to come up with a plan that is pure genius, and if you are honest with yourself, you know that your logical mind did not come up with the idea you had.

Yet Scorpio woman, you also need a reminder of this power. You need to be able to see your connection to Divine Inspiration as a natural and continual part of the process of your creativity and intuition.

Use this affirmation to remind yourself that some aspects of your creativity and compulsion to move forward in a particular direction is divinely inspired.

I surrender my ego desires and serve a higher purpose.

This is not easy for you to do, Scorpio woman. Yet it is essential to your sense of balance. When you don't surrender the desires of your ego, you can get entangled in your own willfulness and convince yourself that wishful thinking is actually intuition.

You need to remain grounded and connected to your higher purpose. For you, Scorpio woman, the practice of aligning with your higher power and greater purpose and not just feeding into your ego desires is as essential as eating food or drinking water.

If you don't take the time to create this balance, you can lose your perspective in a serious way. Your proclivity for obsession can become more predominant. You may become so obsessed with a love interest, for example, that you convince yourself you are destined to be together in spite of obvious signals indicating this is not true.

Also, you are highly sensitive to your environment. You may try to use your ego desires as a way to control your deeper emotions. Yet when you surrender to your higher purpose, your emotions and sensitivity are no threat. You won't feel compelled to be so overprotective of your emotions and sensitive nature.

Instead you can resume your life's work without becoming distracted by things that pull at your emotions but which are, in the grand scheme of things, less significant.

Use this affirmation to remind you that you have a higher purpose and it may not always align with the desires of your ego self. That is ok, you can keep these two forces in balance and can maintain perspective.

I easily find power and attract powerful people.

You certainly are a powerful force to be reckoned with. You can thank your two planetary rulers (not every sign has TWO rulers, after all and that should tell you something) Mars and Pluto.

Mars is powerful and sometimes impulsive, like a surge of energy or caffeine boost that propels you forward and gives you a needed jumpstart.

And then there is Pluto. Pluto is on a whole different level. If Mars is the energy of Fire, Pluto is like nuclear power. These planets both fuel your sign. Balancing them is no easy task!

It's no wonder you are easily drawn to influential and powerful people though, Scorpio woman. Others see the way you carry yourself. They see your natural sense of authority.

You are also drawn to power in all its forms. Like a moth to the flame, in fact. Sometimes, pursuing power for the sake of power backfires on you. You can easily get burned by your own ambition.

Yet you can also advance in your life by knowing who the right connections are. When you let go of your ego and defenses, you can easily attract the right people you need to find to bring you further on your path.

You easily stand out to others as a powerful individual. You also easily align with people who have their own power and authority, further enhancing your standing and prospects.

My confidence radiates easily to others.

Since your two ruling planets are the planets of personal and transformative power, it is no wonder that you tend to be quite confident naturally.

Even when you're actually not feeling your most confident, you can easily fake it and convince others. Sometimes you have to fake it 'til you make it as the old saying goes.

This isn't hard for you, Scorpio woman. But sometimes you need a reminder. You need to know that you are the source of your own confidence and fabulousness. Not the approval of others. Not the love of the man you adore. Not even the status and success of your thriving career.

Only you, Scorpio woman, determine how you feel about yourself and what kind of power you believe yourself to have.

I am a channel of Divine Love and healing.

Your potential for psychic connection is legendary, Scorpio woman. This word can be loaded at times but it means so much more than just predicting the future or talking to the departed.

It also means you are a channel of Divine Love and wisdom. Those ideas you suddenly have that don't completely feel like they are your own? The deep empathy you have for others who are wounded?

These are all examples of your potential to be a healing and loving channel of energy from Spirit.

Use this affirmation when you need a reminder of your mission and your worth. When you are getting too distracted by the desires you have for mundane successes or unrequited love.

You are a source for so much more than going through the motions of the superficial world. Though you may have a purpose in this world, it is not your only purpose. You are a healer and channel of transformative energy.

That power doesn't come from your intellect, though your intellect helps you work with it. Instead, it comes from your connection to the Divine and your intuition's ability to guide you.

NEXT STEPS...

Continue to use these affirmations whenever you need them.

In order to be effective, affirmations bear repeating. It's literally part of the process of working with them on a daily basis.

That's when you can 'bend your stars' to fully work for you and overcome all challenges.

You may feel one is more helpful for a period of time and that is fine to focus on just one at a time.

Yet when you feel the need to focus on another goal or overcome a different obstacle, you may need to vary the affirmations you are using or switch from one to another.

Remember to speak them from the heart. As empty words, they do not serve you.

Only when you believe in the reality of what you are saying do these words hold their true power.

I hope you have the courage and consistency to experience the incredible power the regular use of these affirmations can have on your life.
